ARMED RADICALS NOW HOLD MANY OF GERMANY'S MINES AND INDUSTRIES

Total Casualties in Recent Fighting Estimated at 12,000--Berlin Quiet--Negotiations On For Creation of Labor Government.

ARMED RADICALS ....

Between 10,000 and 15,000 square miles of Germany, including the rich industrial and mining district of Westphalia, are dominated by armed reds today, according to an estimate based upon unofficial press dispatches.

The total casualties in the fighting throughout Germany, including killed and wounded, are estimated at 12,000.

Berlin was quiet at last reports, but further fighting is threatened in the Ruhr district where the workers have massed a formidable army.

The reds hold the important port of Swinemund and control Essen (the seat of the Krupp works) and many other important cities in western and northern Prussia.

The German government claims to be in complete control of Leipzig and Dresden, which were recently the scene of bloody fighting.

The government is reported to be relaxing its military measures to placate the workers and make the order calling off the general strike effective at once.

The workers are demanding the creation of a labor government and negotiations are proceeding at Berlin.

DAYLIGHT SAVING REPEAL BEATEN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., March 23.—The assembly this afternoon, by a vote of 70 to 64, refused passage of the Betts bill, repealing the daylight saving law.

WILSON FOR NEW COAL CONFERENCE

Declares New Soft Coal Wage Agreement Must Be Based On Majority Report of Commission—Warns Against Profiteering.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 23.—President Wilson today made public a letter which he has written to the coal miners and operators in which he declares the majority report of the bituminous coal commission is the one on which the new wage agreement between the miners and operators must be based.

The president urged that the miners and the operators meet in conference at the earliest possible moment and draw a new wage agreement based on the majority report in order that the public may no longer be worried over the question of a coal shortage.

The president in his letter declared that on and after April 1 all government fixed prices on coal will be suspended and that no further efforts will be made to regulate prices, he gives warning, however, to the operators against profiteering.

Because the report of the commission was not unanimous it had no power to fix prices, the president stated

The majority report which President Wilson supports recommends an increase of 24 cents a ton to tonnage workers, the 14 percent increase granted by the fuel administration to be eliminated on March 31 and the new wage to be effective until March 31, 1922. The minority report concurs in this provision.

For day labor the majority report makes an award of an increase of $1 a day for men and 53 cents a day for boys. The minority report asks for an increase of $1.35 a day for men and 75 cents a day for boys.

Both reports agree to an increase of 20 percent for cartage workers.

The majority report continues the eight hour day. The minority report agrees to continue the eight hour day for one year, at the end of which time it is to be reduced.

Both reports provide for a tribunal to settle future disputes between the operators and miners. The majority report calls for a joint commission to which shall be submitted questions of differentials.

The reports recommended that steps be taken to provide for a three months supply of coal for government departments and public utilities be in storage on the first of July of each year.

The majority report recommends that the interstate commerce commission make freight rates lower in the spring than in the coal in order that coal may be moved during the spring and summer months and a car shortage obviated.

The minority report declares that the increase in wages should be born by the operators.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, stated that he would not make any comment until he had studied the award made by the majority of the commission, which president Wilson supported.

GOVERNOR SMITH SIGNS RONDOUT BRIDGE BILL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., March 23.—(Special)—Governor Smith has signed the Walton-Van Wagenen bill appropriating $420,000 for the construction of the Sleightsburgh bridge and approaches.

On Thursday Major Frederick S. Greene, state highway commissioner, will open bids for the construction of the bridge and award the contract. Four bids are expected to be received.

BARKER, UNION HEAD, RESIGNS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Detroit, March 23.—Allan E. Barker, grand president of the United Botherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes and Railway Shop Laborers, this afternoon announced that he had resigned that position and his resignation was accepted by the grand lodge officers. F. Gradle, one of the grand vice-presidents, is acting as grand president. Strain from overwork and the large responsibility attached to his office was given as the reason for his resignation.

"My health is poor and I have been in harness a long time," he said. "I expect to go west for some months. One thing is sure, I will not again work for a labor organization. I have had enough of that and am glad to be relieved of the responsibility."

The position carries a salary of $14,000 a year.

After-the-Flu Clinic Friday.

The next After-the-Flu clinic will be held at the Court House on Friday of this week from 9 to 5 o'clock. It is free to all. If a cold or trouble in the throat or on the lungs hangs on, better drop in and let the specialist, Dr. Stanley Wang see what the real trouble is.

New Auto Hearse.

W. N. Conner, undertaker on Fair street, has just received a Cunningham automobile hearse of the latest model. It is painted Marathon grey, and the interior finish is in Circassian walnut.

BUILDING TRADES WANT MORE PAY

Plumbers, Painters and Carpenters Will All Seek Raise in Wages the First of April—Plumbers and Carpenters Want a $7 Day, and Painters a $6 Day.

With the announcement recently made that the carpenters and painters would seek an increase in wages the first of April comes the further news that the local plumbers would also seek an increase in pay at the same time. The carpenters and plumbers will seek a $7 day, while the painters are said to be content with asking for a $6 day.

It is understood that the local plumbers' union will hold a meeting later in the week at which time they will formulate their demands for an increased wage, basing the demand on the increased costs of necessities, such as rent, food, heat and clothing. The plumbers are now receiving $5 for an eight hour day. The carpenters and painters are basing their demand for more pay, it is said, on the same grounds.

In this connection it is interesting to note that ten years ago today the members of the local painters' union struck for a $3 day. They had been receiving a wage of $2.75 a day. Ten years ago, however, the $3 would purchase considerably more than it will now.

With the greatly increased cost of all materials used in building it is likely that the individual who was seriously thinking of erecting a house this summer will give the matter careful thought.

SOFT COAL RULES ENDED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 23.—President Wilson today issued an executive order suspending on April 1 all rules and regulations relative to the price of bituminous coal.

ACCOUNTINGS MADE

In Bankruptcy of P. A. Lasher and B. C. West.

The creditors of P. A. Lasher will receive 21 cents on the dollar, in a final accounting before Amos Van Etten, referee, in bankruptcy. D. G. Atkins was the trustee. Lasher conducted a meat market uptown and on Broadway. The amount of indebtedness was $8,000.

In the final accounting of the estate of B. C. West of Napanoch, two dividends were declared which pay the creditors 31 per cent. West was a general merchant, and filed a petition in bankruptcy in December, 1918. The indebtedness amounted to $16,000. In an investigation made by D. G. Atkins, attorney for the trustee, Charles G. A. Fischer, a quantity of small merchandise was found at Lackawack. The value of this computed at actual cost amounted to $610.

AN OLD LANDMARK.

Harley Homestead, Owned By Family For Three Generations, Sold.

The old Harley Homestead at 82 Franklin street, sold recently by George S. Harley of this city and Elizabeth Harley Forbes of Boston, Mass., to Joseph Southard has been in that family for three generations and is the last old landmark in that section of the city. It is the last of a large tract of land owned by the family in 1849.

Shoots Officer in India.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Boston, March 23.—Major H. D. Clute, a British army officer in Sadiya Assam, India, was shot and killed by L. W. B. Jackmane, of Livonia, N. Y., a physician connected with the Baptist mission, according to word received today at headquarters of the American Baptist Foreign Missionary Society. The murder was understood to be the result of domestic troubles.

Transactions in City Realty.

John D. Groves and wife of Gettysburg, Pa., have conveyed to Leonard Markle of this city, premises on the southerly side of West Chester street.

Washington, March 23.—The practicability of declaring peace with Germany by a resolution of congress was discussed today by Representative Porter, chairman of the house foreign affairs committee, and Senator Lodge, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee.

Arrested on Bench Warrant.

Cecil Osterhoudt was arrested this morning by Under Sheriff Haulenbeck on a bench warrant and was released on furnishing bail in the sum of $500 by County Judge Fowler. The bail bond was furnished by William Van Etten. The grand jury indicted Osterhoudt on a charge of forgery in the second degree.

COMMANDER SCHWEIGER'S STORY OF SINKING OF LUSITANIA BY HIS SUBMARINE, THE U-20

Official Log of Dead German Captain-Lieutenant Shows That He Was Not Sent After Great Liner--Identified Her After Sending Torpedo--Could Not Fire Second Time Into Struggling Mass of Humanity--Second Explosion Was Inside Ship--Tells How He Sailed Away, Leaving Hundreds Struggling For Life.

Copyright, 1920, by the International News Service, publication rights in Great Britain.

(By Frank E. Mason.)

Berlin, March 3rd—(By special courier to New York)—Like a voice from the vaults of the dead, the official story of the destruction of the Lusitania, written on that historic afternoon of May 7, 1915, by the German submarine commander whose hand directed the fateful shot, is here given to the world.

It is a terse, passionless document, jotted down in brief sentences, within the tiny cabin of a steel terror of the deep, by Captain Lieutenant Schweiger, who commanded the German U-20. This arch fiend is dead but his posthumous story, "How I Sank The Lusitania," exists in the achives of the German navy. It is written over his signature and the vary lack of sentiment in the epochal narrative stands in weird contrast to the shock which the sinking of the Lusitania, with the loss of 1,195 lives, gave to civilization.

Schweiger, the log shows, had been ordered to the Irish Sea to harass shipping off Liverpool. On account of the vast network of barricades erected by the British navy across the North Channel, he started to sail all the way around Ireland but his fuel ran short and he determined to disregard his orders and return to his base. He had started back to Wilhelmshaven when he suddenly met the Lusitania.

The submarine commander was surprised to see a giant passenger liner steaming unconcernedly eastward past the south coast of Ireland. Schweiger jotted down a criticism in his official diary. He thought it was bad management on the part of the British Admiralty to let the great Cunard liner pass through St. George's Channel instead of North Channel (between Ireland and Scotland.)

"It remains inexplicable why the Lusitania was not sent through North Channel," wrote Schweiger in his log a few hours after the Lusitania had been sent to the bottom.

Schweiger tells of his vigil at the periscope. A mighty liner is reflected in the mirror. It has four great funnels and is evidently one of the floating palaces of the Atlantic. The U-20 submerges and plunges ahead at high speed to intercept the doomed ship. The submarine rises to see the greyhound steaming ahead at 22 sea miles an hour. There is a sharp command. A great "G" torpedo is fired at 700 metres range. It strikes. A gaping hole is torn in the proud liner on the starboard side behind the bridge. A terrific explosion follows. There is a second explosion and the debris and water spurt skyward. The ship is beginning to keel over. There is tremendous excitement on board. It appears that the officers have lost their heads. They can not get the lifeboats launched. Another shot? Schweiger is tempted. But adds in his log.

"I couldn't have fired a second torpedo into this throng of humanity attempting to save themselves, anyway."

The submarine goes upon its way. Schweiger cooly works on his diary considering the horror of his act as part of the day's work. He figures his marine bearings and notes his success and makes his comment.

There are twelve pages of typewritten manuscript with accompanying maps and charts. It looks unimposing bound in a simple wrapping of blue manilla covers. But it is history. I am not at liberty to explain how I secured possession of these important papers from the naval achives for 36 hours to enable them to be photographed. But that is comparatively unimportant.

Schweiger's terse account intended only for official eyes, contradicts and brands as false Germany's subsequent announcement that the captain who sank the Lusitania did not know he was firing on a passenger vessel. But Schweiger did not know until approximately ten minutes after the torpedo was fired that the stricken ship was the Lusitania. No stern flag was flying and it was not until he saw in gold letters on the liner's bows "Lusitania" that he knew the identity of the vessel.

The favorite tactic of merchant ships hunted by submarines was to speed ahead on a zigzag course. The attacking "U" boat, without waiting to learn the name of its quarry, would then set out to get in front of the vessel, to give a mortal blow.

This apparently explains why Schweiger did not stop to identify the Lusitania before he fired upon her.

From the standpoint of settling allied conjectures and theories, probably one of the most valuable revelations contained in the log is its proof that the second mysterious explosion came from within the Lusitania itself. Schweiger did not attempt to define actually what caused this but suggested "boiler, coal or powder". Fire broke out and the smoke obscured somewhat the view of the submarine commander.

It is significant to note that, although the German embassy at Washington had notified travellers not to sail on the Lusitania, the U-20 was not under specific orders to sink that ship.

German submarines were too few and precious to the German Admiralty to detail them to hunting down and sinking a single vessel.

As the log of the U-20 consists of technical and nautical terms and a translation into American naval language would be most unintelligent to the average reader, I will paraphrase parts of it, except those relating to May 6 and May 7. For these were the days when the U-20 sank three large passenger vessels, including the Lusitania, and the reader is given the words of Schweiger as he set them down with his own hand.

The inscription upon the little paper-bound volume containing Schweiger's log follows:

"H. M. U. Boat U-20 for the time from March 18, 1915, to August 31, 1915.

"Commander Captain-Lieutenant Schweiger."

ALBANY "DOPE" ADVERSE TO WETS

Latest Program of Sweet And Other Leaders Said To Be Defeat of Wine and Beer Bills And Enactment of Enforcement Bill Backed By Anti-Saloon League.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., March 23.—The legislature will not enact prohibition legislation of any kind.

This is the latest ultimatum issuing from the sanctums of some of the legislative leaders. If carried out it will mean defeat of the beer and light wine bills and the enforcement measure backed by the Anti-Saloon League.

Speaker Sweet of the assembly, leading advocate of a state enforcement bill in the lower house, is reported to have switched and is now determined that no liquor legislation is to be passed.

His prior determination to kill off beer and wine bills, expressed publicly, led to an insurgency in the assembly Republicans and considerable feeling between senate Republican leaders and Mr. Sweet.

It is believed that Mr. Sweet's new stand on the question is prompted by the desire to peacefully iron out the opposition Republicans and relieve the legislature of the embarrassment which might attend consideration of so-called liberal prohibition legislation while investigating the Anti-Saloon League, its superintendent, William H. Anderson, and its lobbying methods on prohibition measures.

EX-SOLDIERS SEEK TO BAR DEMPSEY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., March 23.—Jack Dempsey will never defend his title of king of the heavies, in a New York ring, if some of the 35 ex-soldier members of the assembly can prevent him.

The soldiers will meet tonight to devise some amendment to the Walker bill legalizing boxing which will be acceptable to the legislature and which would effectually bar Dempsey from showing his wares in this state. The attack on the champion's patriotism which he is now busily engaged in countering, is responsible for the contemplated action of the ex-service men.

The Walker bill which would place the game under the supervision of the army, navy and civilian board of control, is ready for passage in the senate probably today.

COLBY CONFIRMED

And Work of State Department Will Be Resumed.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 23.—Without a roll call and with only about twenty members present, the nomination of Bainbridge Colby to be secretary of state was confirmed by the senate yesterday. Mr. Colby is in New York but is expected to come to Washington immediately and assume the office thus putting an end to the passport difficulties which have existed since acting Secretary of State Polk became no longer eligible to perform the duties of the office under the thirty days limitation of the law.

Sinn Feiner Accuses Sentry.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Cork, Ireland, March 23.—An attempt to assassinate Professor Stockley, Sinn Fein alderman of Cork, was made by a British sentry last night, according to a declaration by Stockley today. This was the second attempt upon Stockley's life within a week. Stockley was on his way home when challenged by a British sentinel. He was given permission to pass but immediately afterwards lunged at the professor with his bayonet but missed.

Bank Robbers Make Haul.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Lincoln, Neb., March 23.—The safe of the First National Bank of Greenwood, Neb., twenty miles north of Lincoln, was robbed of $101,500 in liberty bonds and $300 in cash by yeggmen, according to telephonic advices received here early this morning. The robbers cut all telephone and telegraph wires leading out of town and made their escape on a hand car.

WANT NEW BRIDGE NEAR MALDEN

New York Central Petitions Public Service Commission For Structure Twenty Feet Wide to Carry Fifteen Ton Loads—To Replace Old Wooden Bridge Carrying State Road Over Tracks.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, March 23.—Improvement of the main state highway bridge crossing the West Shore railroad tracks just north of Malden in the town of Saugerties, Ulster county, is asked by the New York Central railroad under a petition filed with the Public Service Commission, Second District, today applying for a determination under the Railroad law as to the manner in which the present bridge, built in 1882, shall be changed or altered. Early action will be taken by the commission.

The railroad states that the state highway is now carried over the tracks on a bridge of two timber truss spans, rebuilt and repaired a number of times since it was originally constructed. The bridge was built originally for trucks with a weight of four tons loaded, but the present day traffic is heavy and many trucks much heavier operate over the bridge. In order to safely carry the present day traffic the company says the bridge should be reconstructed and designed to carry trucks of fifteen tons loaded, with a clear width of 20 feet as against about 14 feet as at present.

Estimated cost of the new bridge under a plan by the railroad including necessary changes in grade of approaches will be about $79,000. Public safety, the company alleges, requires the construction of a new bridge in place of the present structure.

ANDERSON NOT TO APOLOGIZE

Will Appear Before Judiciary Committee in Response to Resolution —Inquiry to Be Separate From Anti-Saloon League Probe.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., March 23.—William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, will appear before the assembly judiciary committee to answer for alleged verbal attacks on legislators, but may not be expected to offer an apology, close friends of his declared today.

The assembly last night adopted a resolution offered by Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier, demanding that Anderson be investigated. The resolution as originally drawn would have required Mr. Anderson to appear before the bar of the house and unless he satisfactorily explained his attacks on the lawmakers, he would have been imprisoned.

It is not expected that Mr. Anderson will be required to appear before the committee until after the Socialist report is completed, presented to the house and finally voted upon. According to Chairman Louis M. Martin, of the committee, the inquiry into the reasons and truth of Mr. Anderson's attacks will be distinct from the proposed investigation of the Anti-Saloon League.

Ford to Seek Senatorship.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 23. Henry Ford will make a more determined fight than ever over the seat of Senator Newberry, (Mich.) following the conviction of the Michigan senator. It became known yesterday that Alfred Lucking, attorney for Mr. Ford, wrote a letter on March 17 to Senator Dillingham (Vt.) chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, as the Newberry case was near the end, but before the verdict was assured, Mr. Lucking asked that the committee open and hurry the inquiry.

Soikanhbade Club.

The Soikanhbade Club met on Monday with Mrs. Rice at her home on Downs street. Mrs. Hines, a former member of the club, forwarded her paper on "Colombia, the Wonderland of Opportunity," and it was read by Miss Dorothy Leighton. It was a very interesting paper. Current Events were also carefully considered by the club members. The club will meet next Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lasher on Lucas avenue.

CANDIDATES OF "FAMILY."

In a year of so many candidates with varying qualifications perhaps we ought not to be surprised to hear that even the claims of long descent should for the first time press for recognition in supposedly democratic America. Apparently two men out in Oregon think they ought to be made Vice President because of their distinguished ancestry. According to the Portland Oregonian, petitions have been filed "for the Vice Presidential nomination of Elwood Washington, who it is alleged is a descendant of the Father of His Country, and of Samuel Adams, whose press agent says of him that he is a 'member of the Adams family that has already given two Presidents to the country.'"

A part of smart society may be interested in this, even though the people generally remain quite unmoved. But "society" will want to be sure that Samuel Adams belongs to the distinguished Adams family of Massachusetts and not merely to the vast Adams family of the United States. And "society" will also want to know how Elwood Washington managed to become a descendant of the immortal George who unfortunately died without issue.

GERMANY'S PLANS.

The armies of the Allies are virtually disbanded. England and France are drifting apart in sympathy and policy. Italy is absorbed in her own affairs and desires. The legislators of the United States are concerned mostly about home issues and the coming Presidential election. What Germany counted on and hoped for in some measure even while the war was in progress has now come to pass. The great alliance against the foe of the world has fallen apart, substantially if not formally, and the foe of the world, though beaten, sees good reason to hope to escape every punishment and finally to come to a great part of the triumph aimed at in the beginning.

German propaganda became busy in all the countries of the alliance as soon as the armistice was signed and since the publication of the peace terms it has worked overtime and with superlative cunning, especially in the United States. It labored to create forgetfulness of Germany's crimes and pity for the German people burdened with taxes to pay war indemnities. It struggled to show that fallen Germany was more sinned against than sinning. It wrought mightily to induce the conviction that in their own interests the Allies ought to assist in rebuilding and making Germany economically strong. It even created sentiment in favor of permitting Germany to regain her old military strength on the specious plea that such strength was imperatively needed by the world's forces of conservatism in their coming battle with the spreading leprosy of Bolshevism. Such propaganda has been amazingly successful, particularly in the United States where, in the midst of the strife of political parties for every possible advantage and the greatest number of votes from those still with a tenderness for Germany in their very blood, even the debt to our dead soldiers seems to be forgotten in a widespread desire to avoid "harshness" and to speak only in kindly terms of our late foe to the knife.

The result of all this calculating softness and perceptible Allied estrangement and weakness is that unrepentant Germany is rapidly becoming both insolent and defiant. Taking advantage of the mawkish sentimentality their agents have largely created and of Allied dissension, indecision and lack of stomach to apply the strong hand, the Germans have not only declined to surrender their war criminals but intimated their intention to defy other terms of the treaty, one after another. Already the old talk of a "German peace" is revived in Berlin, of demanding revision of the treaty (which they signed with unspoken "reservations," winking at each other the while) and of making a peace on Germany's terms—and the members of the once great alliance are so busy with their internal affairs and in throwing stones at each other that they hardly take notice! There is need today, as there was in 1918, of a unity of civilization against the scientific savagery of Germany, and unless such unity can be brought back a nation treacherous in peace as in war will get what it wants. And one of the things it wants is that some fine day Europe and the world shall once more suddenly awake to the fact that they have been caught napping.

DEEP TAPPING OF TREES IS UNWISE

Holes Over Two Inches in Length Give No Greater Yield of Sap—Other Pointers.

Experienced maple sugar men say there is no advantage in tapping trees with holes deeper than 1½ to 2 inches, since practically all of the sap flows through the outer sap wood. Deeper holes require more labor, give little or no more sap during the season, and result in greater damage to the wood should it later be cut for lumber. A hole placed 4 to 4½ feet from the ground is most convenient and gives the largest flow of sap.

As a general rule, it is not well to tap trees smaller than ten inches in diameter at the point of tapping. Under ordinary circumstances spouts should be set not nearer than two feet apart along the circumference of the tree.

Thus, trees up to 16 inches in diameter will stand one tap hole, trees 16 to 24 inches in diameter two tap holes, trees 24 to 32 inches in diameter three tap holes, and trees over 32 inches in diameter four tap holes.

Trees may be injured by overtapping, but ordinarily the amount of sap taken is but 4 per cent to 6 per cent of the total contents, and the loss does no harm.

It is best to tap in a new spot each year.

One should not try to plug up the old taphole. A little creosote or paint may be daubed on without harm. A good thrifty tree will heal over a taphole in one or two years, and if the tree is not thrifty it ought not to be tapped.

Any bits of wood should be cleaned out of the hole, and the spout driven in immediately. It must be driven firmly enough to hold the bucket, but not so tightly as to split the wood of the tree.

The tap holes should be reamed out with a slightly larger bit at least once during the season.

If season is broken by a warm spell of several days with no flow of sap, followed by another spell of "maple sap weather," the first holes should be abandoned and new holes made. At the same time the spouts and buckets should be thoroughly cleaned.

It is difficult, if not impossible, to set any definite date for tapping. The trees should be tapped early enough so that the entire "run" may be taken advantage of.

AGRIGRAPHS.

Don't be afraid of one or two garden novelties, but in the main stick to time tried varieties.

Is the harness all ready, with collars scraped, cleaned, and smoothed for the heavy spring work?

In planning the garden it is well to keep in mind the old rule that it is better not to repeat the same crop where it grew last year.

The federal department of agriculture is advising farmers to get back to clover. This advice is for the sake of the land which was kept busy producing wheat in war times.

After the snowy winter there is strong likelihood of mouse and rabbit damage in the orchard. Paint or wax will help the wounds, and in some cases bridge grafting may be necessary.

New York is first in the number of trucks used on farms, accordingg to a survey made by the federal department of agriculture. Pennsylvania, Nebraska and Iowa are closely matched for second place honors.

Flowers are grown for their beauty. Remember this in ordering seeds and plants for the spring. Buy no mixtures of colors but purchase named varieties and distinct colors. Do not be content to have "just asters" or "just gladioli."

Phoenicia, March 22.—Two games of basketball were played here on Saturday night. The first one was an interesting game in which the Phoenicia Midgets were beaten by the junior team from the Woodland School. The second game, which was roughly played throughout, ended with Phoenicia leading with 26 points to their credit and the Gilboa team having only 8. Simpson, a guard on the home team, did rather brilliant work near the end of the last half by scoring three field baskets after having traveled while dribbling the ball the length of the court on each occasion.

MUST HAVE CANAL UPKEEP FUND

Says State Engineer In Telling Of Interest Shown In Waterway By Industry—Sale Of Abandoned Lands.

The necessity of a maintenance fund for the Barge Canal is pointed out by State Engineer Frank M. Williams, who in telling of the interest shown in the waterway by wide awake industrial corporations, said:

"The recent purchase of land near the Barge Canal Terminal at Syracuse lends emphasis to the suggestion that abandoned canal lands be used as sites for industrial plants. A few large companies notably the General Electric Company and Standard Oil Corporation are appreciating the waterway and making use of it. It would seem that only a knowledge of conditions is required to convince others of the value of water transportation. To such as are seeking industrial sites, the abandoned canal lands present excellent locations. They are near the new canal as a general rule, are not far from the railroads and are in convenient proximity to power from surplus waters, the utilization of which seems destined to become an accomplished fact before long.

"So far as this department is concerned the work of surveying and mapping the old canal lands has been principally confined to sections where there is a prospect of selling the land and this work has reached a stage where the greater portion of the old lands in Utica, Syracuse and Rochester can be disposed of together with other similar property this year. From the sale of this property the state should receive considerable revenue as up to January 1, 1920 the sales made, which embraced but 7 miles of land, brought into the state treasury $426,818.56.

"The Barge Canal is completed but to attract business and industry it must be efficiently operated and properly maintained. The maintenance of the canal system does not come under the direct supervision of the state engineer, nevertheless, it is necessary for this department to furnish the engineering assistance required in the performance of the maintenance work. The modern conditions on the new waterway make the equipment and force necessary to maintain it quite different from that required on the old canals. The superintendent of public works should accordingly be given sufficient funds to properly equip his department to meet the maintenance problem now facing him."

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

3033.—A Smart "Tunic" Dress

Here is a pretty model for serge and satin, duvetyn and crepe, or crepe de chine and chiffon. Bordered or embroidered materials could be used for this model. Gray blue georgette crepe could be combined with black satin, and have a simple ornamentation of embroidery in self color. Purple and black, or black satin or silk with a touch of copper color would be effective.

The pattern is cut in 3 sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 requires 5¾ yards of 44-inch material. Width of skirt at lower edge is 1¾ yards.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or 1c and 2c stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

LACKAWACK.

Lackawack, March 22.—George Barthel died at his home Saturday morning, at the age of 26 years, after a short illness of influenza. Deceased was a son of Edward Barthel and Lucy Wright. Besides his parents, he leaves a wife and two small children, one three years and one three months old. Mr. Barthel was born at Lackawack. He was member of George Inness Council, No. 103, Ellenville, Jr. O. U. A. M. The funeral was held at the home of his parents Tuesday and interment at Yagerville. The flowers were numerous and beautiful.

Mahlon Wright, Stella Johnson, Lew Simpson and Mrs. Barthel, were here for the funeral of George Barthel.

Mrs. Barthel was sick and not able to attend the funeral of her husband.

Edwin Barthel has a new milch cow.

Harry Conklin has gone to Fallsburgh to work. He left last Monday.

Mrs. Lorin Wright and family have the flu.

Lorin Wright, Jr., is still sick with the flu.

Mrs. Josie Hornbeck Brooks died at her home at Sundown of influenza. She leaves her husband and two children, her father, three brothers and two sisters.

Lewis Simpson is spending some time at Marion Donivan's at Rocky Hill.

Mrs. Milton Wells is caring for Mrs. Barthel who is ill.

Mrs. Viva Eastman passed through this place Tuesday.

Harry McDole has moved from Mrs Evans's house to the Smith house.

Mrs. Wright was able to attend the funeral of her grandson.

The excelsior mill is running every day since the first rain.

Sorry to hear of the illness of Katie Shields at Ellenville.

Very Old Superstition

It surprised me to find on investigation that "touching wood" as a supposed safeguard from the consequences of exultation or boasting is a superstition of ancient origin. Authorities on these mythological matters tell us that "it dates from the time when the oak, the [illegible], the rowan (or mountain ash) were held sacred to the gods of the heathen."

CORNELL TUGS ROB AND HARTT TO OPEN RIVER

Both Tugs Engaged by Federal Government, and Will Start for Up River Points Wednesday Morning —Transport Soon to Resume Trips—Other Notes.

The Cornell Line tugs J. C. Hartt and the Rob have been engaged by the federal government to break up the ice in the upper Hudson river to relieve threatened flood conditions, and will start Wednesday morning to try and break a channel through the ice to Van Wie's Point, which is about four miles below Albany. The Hartt was placed in commission today.

This morning the tug Rob was busy out in the river breaking up a channel for the ferry Transport, and if weather conditions remain favorable the ferry will resume trips some day this week, likely Wednesday or Thursday. The Rob found that the ice was much softer today than Monday.

Reports from Albany state that the ice jam at Van Wie's Point is still holding, and that below the Point the ice was still intact. In the river the ice is fully a foot thick off Kingston Point, but the warm weather has softened it to some extent and the Hartt and Rob are expected to be able to break a channel through.

Further up the river the ice is reported to be much thicker. At Coxsackie it is said the ice is fully 20 inches thick. At Hudson the ice still holds firm.

Below Newburgh the river is said to be slowly clearing, but between Kingston and Newburgh the ice is still firm, although at Poughkeepsie the ferry between Highland and that city is now making regular trips.

A number of blue birds and robins were seen on the city streets today, and every indication points to the fact that spring is here. The snow is wasting fast, and on the paved streets the city's White Wings are busy with their brooms cleaning up the winter's accumulation of dirt into piles which are being carted away by the city rigs.

Benjamin Rowe, president of the Saugerties Chamber of Commerce, and Newby S. Barritt went to Philadelphia on Sunday to inspect a ferryboat for the Saugerties-Tivoli route.

WEST PARK

SALVATION ARMY DRIVE IN MAY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, March 23.—Commander Evangeline Booth, head of the Salvation Army in the United States, will leave for Europe on important business immediately at the close of the Salvation Army's 1920 Home Service Appeal for $10,000,000 with which to continue the organization's activities in this country through another year.

As the period of the appeal is to be from May 10 to May 20, Commander Miss Booth plans to sail on the twenty-second of that month, according to announcement made here at Army headquarters today.

The commander will not only inspect the American section of Salvation Army work now going on with the American troops at Coblenz, Germany, and other points along the Rhine, but will confer in London with her brother, General Bramwell Booth, world head of the Salvation Army.

The Salvation Army is the only relief organization with the A. F. in G. on the east side of the Rhine. It has five large soldiers' clubs in the Rhine country.

WOMEN PRESS THEIR LEGISLATION

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, March 23.—Women thronged the capitol today.

Large delegations representing trades in which women are employed, from New York, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Amsterdam, Elmira, Utica and other cities, appeared before the labor and industry committees of both houses, to ask enactment of an eight hour day and minimum wage.

Miss Mary E. Dreier, chairman of the women's joint legislative conference led the forces in favor of the legislation. Miss Mary Van Kleeck of the Russell Sage foundation, former chief of the women's bureau of the United States department of labor, and Miss Clara Mortenson, secretary of the minimum wage commission for the district of Columbia, are expected to speak.

SUFFRAGISTS LACK ONE STATE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Olympia, Wash., March 23.—Ratification of the proposed suffrage amendment to the federal constitution was completed by the Washington legislature yesterday when the senate unanimously passed a resolution ratifying the amendment. The resolution previously had been passed by the house. Washington was the thirty-fifth state to ratify.

Only one more state is now necessary for ratification.

WALDEN RAISES NEAR EAST QUOTA

Walden, thanks to Mrs. John W. Crowell, leader in the Near East Relief Campaign, has raised $1,630, although its quota was only $1,300.

Kingston officially commenced activities in its Near East Relief Campaign on March 18, with the following officers: Chairman, Newton H. Fessenden; vice chairman, Mrs. Frank W. Thompson; treasurer, Charles R. O'Connor; secretary, Raymond Van Buren; publicity promoter, Sidney Hudson. The executive committee is chosen from the advisory committee and also includes the officers named above.

Vassar College's mark was $12,000 last week. Something over $10 per capita. This sum will help to, if not wholly support an orphanage of 250 children, it is estimated. Can any other woman's college in America equal Vassar's record? Well, it seems to run in the family for the Putnam Hall School, preparatory to Vassar, broke per capita records by turning in about $200 from some 30 scholars.

Prof. M. C. Smith, the Goshen chairman, says: "Don't let anyone tell you that you are on a cold trail when you ask for contributions of their time or money for Armenia. Remind them that the trail is much colder in Armenia where the stars and mountains meet; where the thermometer drops to 30 below zero; where little children cry for bread; where people go blind as a result of starvation; where even soldiers who have withstood the horrors of war and the rigors of terrible campaigns are unable to look upon the misery of Armenia and still be sane."

We are drawing near Easter and are reminded that it takes only a capital to make it Near East-er—a title of which to be proud. To join this order requires small capital—but $15 a month to put one in the front ranks. Quite a capital idea for the orphans.

Home Candy Making

Not many years ago everybody made candy at home.

Now the fashion of home candy making has returned. All kinds are made at home, from the molassses variety that is pulled to fudge or creams. Richness in candy demands some fat. Butter is too expensive, lard compounds leave their mixed flavors and odors.

The best candy shortening is SALANUT---refined virgin peanut oil,---the same oil you use in frying, baking or salad making.

Peanut Fudge

2 teaspoons SALANUT
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup chipped peanuts
2 cups brown sugar
¼ tablespoon salt
1 cup milk

Boil the milk, sugar, SALANUT and salt until it will form a hard ball when tested in cold water. Remove from fire, stir in the flavoring and nuts and beat until creamy. Pour into a pan oiled with SALANUT and as it cools mark it in squares.

and it wasn't his crime

Justice sometimes goes wrong. Men are often punished for crimes they do not commit. And when we thoughtlessly take purgatives and cathartics to relieve stagnant bowels, we are committing a similar injustice.

When the system is unable to remove food waste at regular intervals, it is the food waste, and not the system, that needs correction.

Every other form of treatment either irritates or forces the system. Nujol works on the waste matter instead of on the system. By this entirely new principle Nujol will keep the poisonous waste moving out of the body.

Nujol prevents constipation by keeping the food waste soft, thus helping Nature establish easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals — the healthiest habit in the world.

It is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take — try it.

Nujol is sold by all druggists in bottles only, bearing the Nujol trade-mark. Write Nujol Laboratories, Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey), 50 Broadway, New York, for booklet "Thirty Feet of Danger."

EGGS BOUGHT NOW WILL KEEP YEAR

That Is, If Fresh Clean Ones are Purchased and Put Down in Water Glass—The Method.

One way in which housekeepers who figure carefully are saving money is by putting down in water-glass a quantity of eggs in the spring when, because of increased production, the price is lowest. Eggs for keeping in this way may be bought toward the end of March, or any time during April and May. They may then be kept successfully for as long as a year. Here are some hints on egg preservation from the State College of Agriculture at Ithaca:

Only absolutely fresh eggs should be preserved. If there is any doubt as to the freshness of the eggs, they should be candled. Dirty eggs, or eggs that have been washed, should not be used. Washed eggs will not keep because the protective coating has been removed by the washing, and dirty eggs will become tainted in flavor. Infertile eggs rather than fertile eggs are better for preserving.

If one uses the commercial water-glass, which may be bought at any drug store, three-quarters of a quart of water-glass should be mixed with nine quarts of pure water. Water that has been boiled and then cooled is preferable. The mixture should be stirred until the ingredients are thoroughly mixed. A water-glass in powder form has been put on the market. This is satisfactory for use if directions are followed.

A clean stone jar is the most suitable container. One eight gallon jar is sufficient for fifteen dozen eggs; this quantity will require the amount of solution just prescribed. The eggs should be placed in the water-glass so that those at the top are covered by at least two inches of the liquid. The jar had best be covered in order to prevent evaporation. The jar needs to be stored in a cool place where it will be undisturbed during the year.

The housekeeper who wants to save steps need not go down cellar every time she wants an egg, but may take enough eggs out of the water-glass to last several days, providing, of course, she has a cool place to keep them.

HOMESPUN YARN.

F. 145. It's the new gardening bulletin. State College of Agriculture, Ithaca, N. Y.

Nature furnishes us with pure air, but unless we breathe it freely it profiteth us nothing.

Whatever else you do when putting the winter clothes away this spring, don't neglect giving them a good long airing in the sun.

The person who said that the upbringing of children demands more study than the raising of poultry probably didn't like poultry any less but children more.

Many persons do not seem to realize the harm that comes to children through coffee drinking. Authorities agree that it interferes with sleep and with growth, and begets nervousness.

If you don't relish a mouthful of oiled paper mixed in with your dates, try taking the dates from the package and placing them in the oven for a minute or two before attempting to remove the paper.

Time savers: Bread mixers, food choppers, washing machines, dish drainers, carpet sweepers, paper towels, measuring cups, egg beaters, double boilers, colanders, graters.

Another use for paraffin: Iron baking sheets for cookies produce better results if, instead of being greased, they are warmed and rubbed very lightly with paraffin.

COTTEKILL.

Cottekill, March 22.—On Sunday, March 28, the Rev. W. G. Muhleman, of Kingston, N. Y., Scout Executive of Ulster county, will address Cottekill Troop No. 1, Boy Scouts of America, in the Cottekill Reformed Church at 3:45 o'clock. This address will be especially for the Boy Scouts, but the public is very cordially invited to attend, and the parents of members of the Boy Scouts and all those interested in boys, are especially invited to be present. The Boy Scouts and the members of the troop committee will attend in a body. Mr. Muhleman is a very earnest worker in the interest of Boy Scouts and boys in general. He was a chaplain in the recent world war and served in France. All those who come out to this service will be well repaid for the effort. The service will follow the regular Sunday school that is held at 3 o'clock, and all those who anticipate attending the above service are especially invited to come out in time to attend the Sunday school. You may as well do two good turns as one, so come out and attend the Sunday school next Sunday. You may like it so well that you will continue to come. There are classes suitable for all ages, and you will be placed in a class that will interest you, and you will be surprised at what you will learn while simply a visitor, and if you become a regular attendant you will derive still greater benefit. The Sunday school and the service will be held even though the weather should not be pleasant, on account of Mr. Muhleman being so fully engaged that it is a very hard matter to secure his services. So come out regardless of the weather, attend both the Sunday school and the service after, and you will say that this Sunday was very well spent.

WOODSTOCK.

Woodstock, March 22.—A New York party contemplates running an up-to-date restaurant the coming summer in the house formerly occupied by George [illegible].

The Reformed people have been fortunate in securing a fine, able minister and now have preaching service every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. All are cordially invited.

The new firm of [illegible] and [illegible] have employed the [illegible] twin brothers.

One less boarding house—the "Central Cottage has been rented to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur [illegible].

Mrs. Maurice [illegible] and baby Walter, visited their grandmother, Mrs. E. L. [illegible], who is recovering from an attack of the grip.

The interior of the art shop has been prettily improved by adding more room.

Men who are not satisfied with what does for others—it is for you that Kuppenheimer, Hickey-Freeman, United, Ford Policy Clothes are made!

If these wonderful institution of fine clothes-makers should go out of business tomorrow, other makers would supply the deficiency in volume.

But we question very much if any other houses ever could supply the inspiration to higher standards of workmanship which is Kuppenheimer's, Hickey-Freeman's, United, Ford Policy largest contribution to clothes.

Each season they create new standards of excellence, putting in the shade all that has gone before!

Each season, their efforts are looked for, as eagerly as the literary world waits for a new book by Wells, or flocks to see the latest play by Barrie.

They stand alone and isolated from competition by a reputation for great workmanship, which gets greater as each season rolls around, and which is at its greatest this present Spring.

Kuppenheimer, Hickey-Freeman, United, Ford Policy Clothes.

If you are not satisfied with what does for others—
If you belong to the exclusive circle of the hard-to-please—
If you want the beauties of hand-workmanship in the custom manner—

Kuppenheimer, Hickey-Freeman, United, Ford Policy Clothes are the solution and there is no If about it.

NAVAL MILITIA ARE CONCERNED

Local Men Who Supposed They Were Released From State Service Can't Understand Why They Were Called To Poughkeepsie For Reorganization of 3rd Deck Division.

Sixteen former naval militiamen from this city were notified to appear at Poughkeepsie last Thursday. There was considerable excitement among the former service men when this order was received and the meaning of it could not be learned. However a number of the men answered the call and found that an attempt was bein made to re-organize the 3rd Deck Division of the New York Naval Militia.

The former naval militiamen from this city are much exelfed as to just where they stand. All of the 16 men saw service in the U. S. navy during the war and when released from service considered themselves in the naval reserve. At the time of joining the naval militia, which to the "gob" is similar to the state guard organization among soldiers, many of the boys signed up for three years or duration of the war. However when they were called to active service and became a part of the U. S naval forces they thought they were relieved from the state authority in much the same manner as the national guard troops were when they were federalized. The question which they are all asking now is, were they relieved from state duty or not.

The men were requested to appear at a meeting last Thursday evening for the "annual muster." They appeared and were greeted with the command "fall in." They were somewhat puzzled by the tone of the command, and many demurred. Then, it is said, they were told by Commander Eckfort Dekay, formerly of the 4th Battalion, that they were insubordinate, and should obey all naval regulations as if they were still in the service. After an argument a muster was taken and several were found to be absent.

Commander Eckfort gave gave a talk on re-organization of his battalion and during the talk he was heckled by various men, and apparently was shocked and surprised by the lack of military discipline and deference to his rank.

Many of the local men are much concerned over the matter and especially the statement made by a representative from the state naval militia that the men would "take a cruise this summer." They claim they have been taken out of the naval militia by act of congress and placed in Class 2 of the naval reserve. Mr. Dekay said they were in both services

SEEK WAGES FROM STATE

Employees Of Contractor on Saugerties Road Work Through Village Trustees Petition Governor And Others—Lien Is Only Way Under Present Laws.

The board of trustees of the village of Saugerties is seeking to obtain from the state $1,200 due thirty-five laborers for work in connection with the construction of a state highway through Saugerties by a highway contractor. Since the labor was performed the contractor has abandoned the contract. A copy of a resolution stating the facts have been forwarded to Governor Smith, the state highway commission, the superintendent of insurance, the attorney general and the state industrial commission, asking all to intercede in behalf of the laborers that they might obtain the money due them.

The resolution names Wagner and Braun as the contractors. The road in question was one that was being built through Saugerties in 1916. In addition to the resolution each of the laborers sent a letter to Governor Smith, Jesse S. Phillips, superintendent of insurance, and the state industrial commission reciting the facts and asking for their aid in getting the money due them.

"I am writing to ask," each of the laborers wrote to the governor, "if there is not some way in which you can aid me to obtain payment of the amount, as it is a hardship for me to be without this money. I am informed that the labor law was intended to protect laborers and the policy of the state is that work on the highways should be paid for. It seems to me that there ought to be some means devised by the state to obtain the payment of this money without the expense of carrying the case to the court, which means that in that event there will be nothing but lawyers' bills to pay."

In the office of the highway commission at Albany it was said Monday there was nothing in the law which would enable the commission to pay these laborers. It was asserted that the contract was between the state and the contractors and that the commission was not responsible for the debts incurred by the contractor in the course of the construction of the road. However, it was pointed out, these laborers could file a lien with the commission against the money still due the contractor. That is the only way, under the present laws, by which the laborers could recover the money, it was said.

Steels that make a Maxwell Alert

More miles per gallon
More miles on tires

That quick, sympathetic action you get when you call on a Maxwell to pass the car ahead, to flatten out a hill, to escape from the crowd in traffic has a story.

It's a story of steels.

You can analyze a Maxwell pound for pound with any car built and you will find it quite the equal in fine steels.

A Maxwell had to be made of fine steels. There was no other way.

Because it was built to deliver economic transportation. That meant no superfluous weight. It meant light weight.

But it also meant excessive strength.

Because a rare combination of strength with lightness had to be provided in its steels.

Any metallurgist will tell you that the only answer was the very finest of steels.

They never burden the Maxwell engine, so when you call for results you get them in a Maxwell.

That's one of many reasons why the friendly drift towards Maxwell continues to increase day by day.

Now there are nearly 400,000 of them on the roads of the world.

The demand so far exceeds the supply that only 60% of those who have set their minds on a Maxwell can succeed in possessing one this year.

Cling to Savage Customs.

Throughout the islands of the New Hebrides many of the primitive ceremonies are still performed. The "sing sing" ground is still kept in readiness for the periodical outbursts of feeling, when the islander dances his wild and sacred dances to the ghastly music of the drums. Watching one of these weird revels followed by an orgy of eating, or more correctly stuffing, it seems to the observer that the New Hebrides race is destined to continue until it dies out a savage, or, at best, semi-civilized people.

BRIDGES, BEANS AND THE BIBLE

Jesse Cline Tells Hi-Y Club How A Shirt Factory Runs—Boys Meet Tuesday Night To Study Bible—All Eat Beans.

On Monday nights at six o'clock during the past few weeks the Hi-Y Club which is a Y. M. C. A. organization of high school boys have been meeting at the association for a bean supper and program of entertainment, instruction and to help make the Y. M. C. A. a place for all the boys and young men.

Last night after the supper was over, Mr. Bridges took charge of the program and outlined the work for the coming weeks. Jesse Cline, of the Fuller Shirt factory, gave a very interesting description of how the industrial management is carried on at that plant. It is a very modern and up to date institution and gave the boys an idea of how the large concerns are conducted.

A high school quartet rendered several very fine selections during the course of the evening, and the whole crowd participated in singing some of the poplar songs. This group, beginning with about thirty boys, is increasing each week and will be a large group in the weeks to come.

On Tuesday evening a group of about fifty of the young boys meet at a bean supper for the purpose of Bible study and entertainment. These classes have been going on for some time and are conducted under the auspices of the local association. Examinations will be given during the month of April and certificates will be given to those who make a grade of 70 per cent or above.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS NOTES

Friday afternoon the Senior Boys' basketball team defeated the Sophomores. The game was lively, but the Seniors were too well organized for the Sophomores to do any damage to their pass work.

Recently a new club has been organized in the school. This club, "The Highbrows' Club," is on the same order as the famous "G. C. C.," in that it holds secret meetings and is not hindered in any way by outsiders. Although still in its infancy, the club has begun on a program of social activities. The opening number is one which will be pleasing to the public as well as to the students, and the public is going to be let in on the deal.

There is a great need for a new piano in the school, so this club has decided that they will buy the piano. Then comes the question of finances, which is the big item, of course.

Most fortunately, a communication was received from Hamilton College, stating that its Musical Clubs would be touring this section of the state Easter week and that they would like to stop in Kingston to give a concert on Saturday evening, April 3. Soon the wires between Kingston and Clinton were humming with messages and the Hamilton College Musical Clubs will appear in the Kingston High School auditorium on the scheduled evening of April 3.

In a communication the manager of the Musical Clubs states: "The clubs this year give promise of being even better than last year, when they were hailed as the best clubs to play in New York city. We have lost very few of last season's men, and have acquired considerable new talent both from the freshmen class and from returned service men." This shows how the clubs impressed New York city and what they are made up of.

The Highbrows' Club has a small membership as yet, because of the strictness of the constitution. The members who have enrolled thus far are: President Krom, of the senior class; President Hiller, of the junior class; President Brown, of Prisma; President Weyant, of K. H. S. Musical Association; Manager Gibson, of the basketball team; Manager Kearney, of the 1919 football team; Miss Seigle, Messrs. Buley and Lewis and Manager Norwood, of the varsity basketball. The officers who have full charge of affairs are: Chairman or president, Roger Gibson, who helped make such a success of the minstrel show; treasurer, Miss Seigle, who coached the minstrel show to its triumph; and manager, Wilson Norwood.

Made with Style—E Mold

Fruits 2½c

Per serving. Bottled fruits in Jiffy-Jell desserts

This is a season when fruits are scarce and costly, yet everybody needs fruit daily.

In Jiffy-Jell you get real fruit in abundance. Crushed fruit essence comes in the package, sealed in glass.

For 2½ cents per serving—the cost of an apple—you serve a real-fruit dainty, rich in fruit. And you have eight fruits on call.

Millions are doing it

Millions are enjoying real fruit in this form. If you do not, you are missing rare delights.

Jiffy-Jell comes ready-sweetened. It comes acidulated with lemon or grape acid. So you simply add water, then the fruit-juice essence from the vial, and cool in molds.

One package serves six people in mold form, or twelve if you whip the jell. And it costs you less than the fruit alone.

Found in Jiffy-Jell only

Jiffy-Jell differs vastly from the old-style gelatine desserts. Its fruits are not mere flavors.

We crush the fruit, condense the juice and seal it in a bottle, so its fragrant freshness keeps.

Jiffy-Jell is rich in fruit. We crush, for instance, half a pineapple to flavor one dessert. The fruit is crushed in Hawaii—fruit too ripe to ship.

No other like dessert brings you real fruit in this liquid form in glass. Learn how much this means.

Try several Jiffy-Jell desserts. Also try Lime-fruit flavor to make a tart green salad jell. Try Mint flavor for mint jell to serve with meats.

Then send us the trade-marks for molds, etc., so you can serve it attractively. Do this now.

RIFTON GROWS.

Dashville Falls Development Aids Social Life of Village.

The population of the village of Rifton has been materially augmented since the inception of the job at Dashville Falls, for many of the White Engineering Corporation employes detailed for construction work have taken up residence there. Aside from the many men tenanting homes which they have themselves leased, there are a few boarding with some of the local residents. Mrs. Osterhoudt has graciously offered accommodations for several. At her house are R. S. Brackett, Charles G. Davis and J. G. O'Donnell, while nearby is B. M. Fulton, who recently took up residence with his family after having enjoyed a protracted stay at Osterhoudt's awaiting their arrival. The others having established homes for themselves are Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Bater, Mr. and Mrs. A. Larsen and their daughter, Eleanor, and Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Carter and their son, Richard. These folk are indeed a lively lot and have become much taken up with Rifton. They now have under contemplation a dance in the town hall, which it is expected will take place just as soon as the weather moderates and the road conditions improve.

FOR PRISON RELIEF.

Dr. Dudding, Ex-Convict, Founder of Society Which Seeks Fund.

The Prisoners' Relief Society, of 509 E street N. W. Washington, D. C. is starting a campaign to raise a million dollars in one dollar subscriptions, to establish an endowment fund, so as to perpetuate their nation wide social work among the six million ex-convicts in the United States.

This money is asked for a good cause and you who read this article are asked to send your dollar today and help brighten the days of forgotten men, caged in prison cells and to give some poor ex-prisoner a new start in life.

This society is well vouched for and your dollar spent through this channel will bring golden dividends. This organization was founded by Dr. E. E. Dudding, himself an ex-convict.

STATE OF NEW YORK—SUPREME COURT—COUNTY OF ULSTER.

Victor Van Wagenen against John C. Kimmerly, and Mary Kimmerly, his wife, and May Lockwood Van Wagenen.

In pursuance of a Judgment of Foreclosure and Sale duly made in the above entitled action March 6th, 1920, and entered in Ulster County Clerk's Office March 8, 1920, I, the undersigned, the referee in said Judgment named, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder at the front door of the court house, Kingston, Ulster County, New York, on the 24th day of April, 1920, at twelve noon of that day, the premises directed by said Judgment to be sold and therein described as follows:

ALL THAT CERTAIN LOT, PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND, in Marbletown aforesaid, lying northwesterly of a certain run of water called Gladt Klipe Kill, beginning at a heap of stones on the lands of formerly Stephen N. Ostrander, and runs thence north forty-eight degrees and fifteen minutes west forty-five chains and fifty links to a heap of stones, thence south forty-one degrees and three-quarters west twelve chains and sixty links to a pitch pine tree marked, thence south forty-one and a half degrees east forty-five chains and thirty links to the bounds of formerly William Constable and then along his bounds north forty one and three-quarter degrees east seventeen chains and ninety-six links to the place of beginning. Containing sixty-nine acres. Being same premises heretofore conveyed by Matthew Oliver, executor, of last will and testament of James Oliver, deceased, to James Ostrander, Daniel S. Ostrander and Timothy Ostrander by deed dated June 2nd, 1829 and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office in Book of Deeds No. 52 at page 425, etc., and as described in such deed to which deed or the record thereof reference is hereby made.

Also all that certain lot or parcel of land situate lying and being in Marbletown aforesaid, as heretofore conveyed to Daniel S. Ostrander by Anne Oakley by deed dated June 6th, 1851, and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office in Book of Deeds No. 122, at pages 585, etc., and in said deed described as follows: Being part of a lot conveyed by the Trustees of Marbletown to Abraham Rappleyea and bounded as follows: as described in a release from Abraham Oakley to the said Anne Oakley, beginning at a stake and stones on the south bounds of land in possession of Abraham Bush, from thence along the same as the needle pointed in 1802, south thirty-seven degrees thirty minutes west twenty-three chains seventy-two links to stones thence south fifty degrees east seven chains to a stake and stones on the bounds of a wood-lot of Staats Sarles, and along the same north forty degrees east twenty-three chains seventy-one links to a stake and stones and from thence with a straight line to the place of beginning. Containing seventeen acres and eight-tenths.

Excepting and reserving from the above described lot so much thereof as heretofore conveyed to George Slater by Daniel S. Ostrander and Mary Ann his wife by deed dated April 8th, 1850, and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office in Book of Deeds No. 86, page 628, etc., and conveying about three acres of land.

And also all that lot or piece of land in Marbletown aforesaid, devised to Mary Ann Oakley by John L. Oakley and conveyed to said Oakley by David Davis and Rebecca his wife by deed dated May 1st, 1852, and duly recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office and in said deed described as follows: All that certain wood lot known as lot No. Six of the Marbletown Commons and is butted and bounded as follows, viz: Beginning on the easterly bounds of said lot and runs from thence, as the needle pointed in 1803, south 40° west ten chains to stones, then north 50° west forty-five chains to stones, then north 40° east seven chains twenty-five links to black oak sapling then south 85° east 4 chains 65 links to stones, and then south 50° east 41 chains 50 links to the place of beginning. Containing about 41 acres of land.

Excepting out of the above described lot 17 and one-tenth acres conveyed to Joseph Bush and ten acres conveyed to George Bush by John L. Markle and Phebe Eliza his wife, making in all twenty-three and one-tenth acres of land which is not to be conveyed by these presents. Being the same premises conveyed to John C. Kimmerly and wife by the Ulster County Savings Institution, by deed bearing even date and recorded herewith.

Dated March 8, 1920.

WHY

We Should Eat More Brown Bread and Butter

For the same reason that butter is more nutritious than margarine, brown bread is more nutritious than white bread, that is, because of the vitamine content of butter and brown bread, says the New York Medical Journal. White bread made from highly milled flour is lacking in vitamines. The grain is entirely denuded of the husk which contains the vitamine, and although white bread is more palatable it is not so nourishing nor so conducive in many respects to the maintenance of health as brown bread or as bread made from a mixture of white and brown flour.

In addition to the vitamine content, brown bread provides work for the jaws and incites the salivary glands to action and from its composition exerts a gently aperient effect. A good deal of the prejudice which obtains against brown bread is due to bad cooking. When it is well made it is palatable. In short, brown bread and butter are greatly to be preferred to white bread and margarine, however pleasing these may be in appearance and taste.

Too much faith should not be placed in the caloric value of a diet. A well balanced diet contains a sufficient calorie value and a satisfactory vitamine content. The ideal diet is nourishing, appetizing, and satisfying, that is to say, it is well assimilated, by flavor and odor it excites appetite, and it is not deficient in bulk. Of course it must be adapted to circumstances, climate, occupation, and so on, but it cannot be termed a thoroughly nutritious and wholesome diet if it does not contain a sufficient amount of vitamines. Brown bread and butter, to a limited extent, are an excellent example of such a diet.

Why Bread Gets Stale.

The reason bread becomes stale has been investigated recently by Professor J. R. Katz of Amsterdam, who has discovered that the staleness is due to low temperatures, and not merely to loss of moisture. The experiments of Professor Katz were based upon the keeping of bread forty-eight hours after it was taken out of the oven. He found that if the temperature was maintained at 140 degrees Fahrenheit the bread was quite fresh at the end of the period, but if the temperature was reduced to 122 degrees Fahrenheit a certain amount of staleness was discernible, the process becoming more rapid until a temperature of about three degrees below freezing point was reached. Curiously enough, at lower temperatures than this the degree of staleness is reduced, until at a temperature of liquid air the bread is again perfectly fresh. On the strength of these experiments it has been suggested that bread be kept fresh till required for use by placing it in a fireless cooker immediately after removal from the oven.

STORY OF SINKING OF LUSITANIA

Schweiger thus tells of the start: "April 30, 1915, 7 a. m. Put to sea from Emden on long distance mission to Irish Sea. 10:10—3 a. m. Try a test dive. 12 (noon) Steer carefully to avoid suspected mine fields. Afternoon spent trying out radio equipment, and in sending and receiving messages from H. M. S. Arcona. 8 p. m. Pass several fishing boats flying Dutch flag on Doggerbank."

Schweiger devotes his log for May 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 to accounts of the weather and his flights from squadrons of patrolling warcraft. He tells of the efforts to attack merchant ships. On May 4 he was about to open fire against a vessel which turned out to be a neutral—the Swedish ship Hibernia. On May 6 he sank the "Earl of Latham" of Liverpool and turned the crew adrift in small boats.

Continuing the log the captain-lieutenant wrote:

"On May 6, 12:30 a. m. North Atlantic wind southeast, one swell southeast, two thick fog. Inflated tanks; took look around. Visibility 30 metres. 12:40 p. m., went on at 24 metres depth. 4:40 a. m., inflated tanks. Took look around. Visibility no greater, therefore went on at 24 metre depth. 8:40 a. m., intermittently thicker fog. Tanks blown out as it has cleared up somewhat. Trip continued above water with empty diving tanks. A very large steamer sighted starboard ahead. Drove at her for attack above surface as there was no danger for the boat to be rammed or shot with this poor visibility. Steamer turns off hard when sighting U-20. Held toward the steamer and shot at her with artillery. After we have hit her twice she disappears for a short time in the fog. When the target again becomes visible shoot at her with shells. Clean bow shot (bronze torpedo) two and one-half metre depth adjustment at 500 metre range. Shot hits engine room with little effect. Ship settles somewhat astern, then remains lying in that position. On this account make toward her and fire with guns at stern waterline. Thus ascertain that the painted name at the stern is 'Candidate' of Liverpool. Now sinking slowly. 11:40 a. m. New steamer on horizon following converging course. Steamer soon disappears in fog bank. 12:10 p. m. Fair visibility. Quick dive because vessel comes out of fog square off port. Tried with high speed to get bomb shot position. Attack given up. Vessel was a passenger liner of White Star Line of about 14,000 tons. Carried no flag. 1:30 p. m. Weather clears. Steamer comes into portsight ahead. Advance to attack. 2:30 p. m. Clean bow shot. Torpedo hit forecastle. Crew immediately quits ship. Ship was an Englishman of about 6,000 tons. Name painted over; no stern flag.

(Written on the edge of the log was the pencilled marginal note: Steamer Centurion.)

"May 6 (continued), 1:30, thick fog.

"May 6 (continued) 3:15 p. m. Submerged to 24 metres and steered 240 degrees so as to hold in sea. Thick fog. A further advance towards Liverpool, the proper course is given up because:

"(1) Thick fog and the reading of the barometer, it is not to be expected that it will get clearer during the next few days; (2) In the foggy weather a sighting one of the strong enemy watches, fishing fleet and destroyers in the Georges Channel and Irish Sea, is not possible, resulting in continual danger and underwater travel; (3) Nights not quite clear, watching above surface outside of Liverpool for outbound transports is out of the question, as accompanying destroyers cannot be made out, and it is to be supposed that eventual transports are leaving Liverpool at night and are accompanied; (4) On the trip up to George's Channel, the use of fuel oil has already been so great that a return to Liverpool around the south of Ireland would not be possible and I will start on the return trip when two-fifths of the fuel oil has been consumed, avoiding, if possible, the route through the North Channel because of the kind the U-20 met with up there on the last long distance voyage. (5) There are only three more torpedoes at our disposal, two of which, if possible, I will save for the return trip. It is decided to remain south of the entrance of the Bristol Channel and attack shipping until two-fifths of the oil has been consumed, especially as here are greater opportunities for attacking with less danger of counter-effect than in the Irish Sea near Liverpool. 7:10 p. m. Thick fog. Went to 11 metres then inflated tanks; took a look around. Visibility 30 metres. Therefore went to 24 metres and kept into the sea during the night, so as to be able to load up the batteries in the morning far way from the fire ships."

"May 7, 6 a. m. North Atlantic. Thick fog, then sunshine. Wind north, three. Blow out tanks. Course 270 degrees; loaded. Now and then it is clearing up. 10 a. m. As the fog does not lift I decide now to begin the return trip, in order to push from the outside into the Northern Channel and better weather. 11 a. m. It clears up. A fishing steamer (watch vessel) comes towards us from land, it is yet far off. 11.05 a. m. very good visibility. Went to 11 metres depth. Watched a steamer. Suddenly very good visibility. Steamer making but little headway. 11:30 a. m. Wind north east. Therefore, submerge to 24 metres and run away from him. I will go to 11 metres again at 1 o'clock and have a look around. 12:50 p. m. A ship with very powerful engines is passing over the boat. When the boat comes to 11 metres it turns out that the vessel which ran over the U-20 ten minutes ago is an English war ship; old small war cruiser (Petorius type) with two masts, two funnels. Travel after cruiser to be able to attack it when changing course. The cruiser runs a zig zag course at high speed and by and by passes out of sight in the direction of Queenstown. 1:45 p. m. Visibility very good. Very fine weather. Therefore, pump out tanks; continue trip. Waiting on the heights of Queenstown does not seem worth while. 2:00 p. m. Right ahead appear four funnels and two masts of a steamer with course vertical to us (she steered from south to southwest coming toward Gallyhead.) Ship is made out to be large passenger steamer. 2:05 p. m. Submerged to 11 metres and travelled with high speed on converging course toward steamer, hoping she would change course to start along the Irish coast. The steamer turns starboard, directs her course toward Queenstown and made possible an approach for a shot. Ran at high speed until 3 p. m. in order to attain a position directly ahead. 3:10 p. m. Clean bow shot from 700 metres range (G. torpedo, three metres depth adjustment). Cutting angle 90 degrees. Estimated speed 22 sea miles. Shot hits starboard side right behind bridge. An unusually heavy detonation follows with a very strong explosion cloud (high in air over first smoke stack.) To the expolsion of the torpedo there must have been a second explosion—(boiler or coal or powder?) the superstructure over point struck and the high bridge are rent asunder, fire breaks out, smoke envelopes the high bridge. The ship stops immediately and quickly keels to starboard at the same time diving deep at the bow. It has the appearance as if it will capsize very soon. Great confusion arises on the ship; the boats are being made clear and part being let down into the water. In this they must have lost their heads; many boats, crowded full, were let down bow first or stern first into the water so that they were immediately dashed full. Fewer life boats can be made clear on the port side than on the starboard, owing to the slant of the boat. The ship blows off, in front appears the name 'Lusitania' in gold letters. The stacks were painted black; no stern flag was raised. She was running at a speed at 20 sea miles. 3:25 p. m. As it seems the vessel will keep afloat only a short time, submerge to 24 metres and put to sea. I could not have fired a second torpedo into this throng of humanity attempting to save themselves anyway. 4:15 p. m. Went to 11 metres and took a look about. In the distance astern, are drifting a number of lifeboats. Nothing more, is to be seen of the Lusitania. The wreck must lie:—Old Head of Kingsdale Light house, in 369 degrees northwest. 14 sea miles away; at a depth of about 90 metres (27 sea miles from Queenstown.) and 51 degrees, 22.6 north and 8.31 west. The shore and lighthouse were to be seen quite distantly. 4:20 p. m. On observation port ahead light steamer in sight with course on Fasnet Rock. Attain an advanced position at high speed to get a stern shot. 5:08 p. m. Stern angle shot at 90 degrees on 500 metre range. Estimated cutting angle 90 degrees. Conditions for whole shot were favorable: a missout or the question if the torpedo had the right course. Torpedo missed. As the periscope cut under the water for a while after the shot, unfortunately could not be determined what caused the miss. The torpedo left the torpedo tube properly and it either did not run or went at the wrong angle. Wrong insertion in the tube was impossible because the torpedo officer himself was astern. The steamer was a freighter of the Cunard Line, one thick stack, two masts, no stern flag, about 7,000 tons gross. Probably did not notice the torpedo as it held to its course."

(It is curious to note that Schweiger was more concerned because of his torpedoes had missed its target than he was over the fact he had just sunk a great passenger liner and had departed from the spot leaving hundreds of persons struggling for their lives.)

"May 7, (continued) 5:30 p. m. Submerged to 24 metres and travelled to sea. 6:15 p. m. Pumped out tanks. Round about are occasionally visible six smoke clouds from very large inbound and outbound steamers. It is remarkable that especially today so much traffic should be found here, although on the day before two large vessels were sunk south of St. George's Channel. It seems inexplicable why the Lusitania was not sent through the North Channel. The district south of Ireland from Fasnet Rock up to George's Channel between 30 and 50 sea miles from the coast will remain one of the best regions for the commercial war. For the vessels cannot go past here at night if they want to go into the Irish Sea. A convoy of destroyers will hardly take place at sea; therefore, the counter-effect will be more pleasant to bear here and lighter than the vicinity of harbors or fire ships. It is urgently recommended, however, that boats which are to operate here be equipped only with G torpedoes as many large vessels are travelling here against which bronze torpedoes would have been of little effect. For the ships are now always sure to have their bulkheads and loading hatchways closed. 8:30 p. m. Good visibility. Return trip continued. Far distant from coast so as not be delayed by coast patrols. The last torpedo will be saved for the return trip."

The log for May 8, 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13 are taken up with incidents on the return of the U-20 to Wilhelmshaven.

Schweiger rounded up that part of his diary relating to the "Lusitania voyage" with May 13 and the latter entries refer to another trip.

Under the heading "miscellaneous." he gave considerable technical data about the voyage such as the fact that the U-20 made 3,060 sea miles, of which 2,500 sea miles were made while submerged. He praises the pilot for his wide knowledge of British ship construction.

It was nearly two years after the destruction of the Lusitania that Schweiger was decorated. Then the highest honor within the gift of the German military machine was bestowed upon him—the insignia of "pour le merite"—which was granted only for extraordinary bravery and heroism, shown on repeated occasions. Captain Lieutenant Schweiger was lost at sea in 1917. In November of that year he put out in the U-88 and was never heard of again.

Miss Elsie De Wolfe, noted decorator and indefatigable war worker, snapped aboard the steamship La France, which sailed from New York for France recently. Miss De Wolfe is returning to Paris, where she plans to continue her relief work and reopen her famous chateau for tourists.

Relics of Long Ago.

A clothes chest of King Charles I, bearing the initials "C.R." and crown realized $260 at Rushbrooke hall, near Bury St., Edmunds, at a sale of the contents of this Elizabethan mansion. Two cambric day shirts and a nightcap worn by Charles I realised $52. A silk brocade suit, consisting of coat, waistcoat, with sleeves, and a pair of knee-breeches, also worn by King Charles, brought $185. A pair of silk stockings of the same period, with colored zigzag stripes, made $26, and a jester's coat of painted leather, $85.

Meaning of the Name Ida.

Ida and Ada are practically synonymous. In early times, however, Ada was believed to be derived from Adah, meaning ornament, and the name Adah was given to the wife of Lamech in the Old Testament. But later etymological authorities believe that Ada is merely a Latinized form of Ead, meaning happy or rich, and the same as the German Ida. Ida's gem is the turquoise.

Turks and Alcohol.

Though the laws of Mohammed forbid their consumption, alcoholic drinks are not unpopular among the Turkish working classes. They have long been in favor with the upper classes, even in the days when prohibition laws were so strong in Turkey that the grand vizier tried to stop foreign diplomats from importing wine for their own use.

CARPENTIER HERE N. Y. IMPRESSES

European Champion, Dapper and Weighing 172, Wants to Meet Dempsey Soon and Thinks He Can Beat Him in Six Rounds—Cameras and Reporters Bother Him.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, March 23.—Georges Carpentier, the champion heavyweight of Europe, landed here today from the French liner La Savoie and immediately declared that he was anxious to meet Jack Dempsey at any time and at any place, preferably as soon as possible.

"And I think I can defeat Dempsey in six rounds," declared the Frenchman. "Dempsey is the rushing style of fighter with whom I have always been successful in the past."

Carpentier was met at the docks by Tex Rickard, the promoter, and Jack Curley, under whose tutelage Carpentier will tour the country in some theatrical engagements. Several hundred fight fans, movie men, promoters, actors, managers and others formed a reception committee for the Frenchman and gave him a rousing welcome.

Carpentier looks more like an actor than a fighter. He is dapper, though well built. He said that he weighs 172 pounds at present.

"I am very happy to come to the United States," he said. "I have always had great admiration and respect for the Americans.

"But why don't you ask me if I am happily married?" he queried through an interpeter, and answered the question himself, saying: "I don't believe anyone is happier than I am today."

"I am glad the voyage is over," the French champion admitted. "We had some very bad weather and I was seasick during the first three days.

"Yes, I want to meet Jack Dempsey, and that as soon as possible. I don't care where the bout is held. If I win the world's championship I will defend it at least once, and I believe I can defeat the champion in about six rounds."

Asked what he thought of American boxers he said:

"American boxers are very aggressive and some of them are very clever. I would rather box a good American fighter, like Dempsey, than a poor English fighter."

Carpentier was greatly impressed when he saw the Statue of Liberty and the mountainous sky line of lower New York.

"Ah," he exclaimed, doffing his hat to Liberty, "It is wonderful! I have never seen such a seaport and never so many ships in the harbor."

Cameramen and reporters soon got on the champion's nerves.

"You keep me smiling so much my jaws ache," he said in French, "I'm getting weary wearing this smile."

M. Descamps, in mixed French and English, told the newspapermen that Carpentier will surely defeat Dempsey.

"Georges is too quick and too clever for Dempsey or any other fighter in the world," Descamps said with conviction. "He will surely defeat Dempsey."

FRUIT GROWERS.

Farm Bureau Meetings Scheduled for This Week.

This week the Ulster County Farm Bureau is holding several meetings in the fruit sections of the county. The purpose of these meetings is to consider the advisability of establishing a spray service for Ulster county and to discuss the program of work for 1920. Prof. R. W. Rees, from the State College of Agriculture, will be present to speak at these meetings. A meeting has also been arranged for Flatbush on Thursday evening at the church, March 25, at 8 o'clock. Every farmer in this community interested in fruit should be present at the meeting. Other meetings to be held in the county are as follows:

Ulster Park, Odd Fellows' Hall, 1:30 p. m., Wednesday, March 24.

Milton, Community Hall, 3 p. m., Thursday, March 25.

Marlborough, St. Mary's Hall, 2 p. m., Friday, March 26.

To Reorganize Maroon A. C.

There will be a meeting this evening 8 o'clock at No. 146 Broadway of the former Maroon A. C. and those interested in the same for the purpose of re-organization. This club when organized and under way promises to be one of the foremost of its kind along the river and many future events will be conducted under its auspices. The new organization will be a gentleman's club of the highest order. The young men interested are therefore especially asked to try and be present this evening as officers will be elected.

Diligence.

Our word, diligence, is from the Latin, "diligentia." It means the quality of being diligent: interested and persevering application: devoted and painstaking effort to accomplish what is undertaken: assiduous industry: careful attention. Industry has the wider sense of the two words, implying an habitual devotion to labor for some valuable end, as knowledge or property. Diligence denotes earnest application to some specific object or pursuit which more or less directly has a strong hold on one's interests or feelings.

THE JOY RIDE.

THE Joy Ride is a successful method of killing dull care and anything else that gets in the way.

There are two kinds of joy rides—drunk and sober. Most of the automobile accidents which are played up on the front page every few minutes are due to the joy rider who is so full of booze that he can't tell whether he is in the road or the river. Every once in a while an automobile will fall into the palsied grasp of some driver who has become soundly saturated up to his eyelashes, after which he starts out to see how fast the car will run when it is opened up to the bright blue sky. When two joy riders who are in a state of death-defying alcoholism meet each other head-on, there is a noise like blowing up a munitions factory, followed by the still, small voice of the hospital interne.

If every joy rider could be taken out of the front seat and tested for alcohol before being allowed to run down other people, it would be safer to venture out after day with one's family. What we need in this country is a law requiring every automobile driver to drink nothing but buttermilk for forty-eight hours before starting out for a record run through the main streets. A man with a new automobile can do enough harm to himself without having to dodge a relay of oricyed joy riders to whom death in any form would be sweet.

Two joy riders who are in a state of death-defying alcoholism meet each other head-on.

The best kind of joy ride to take is that which a careful husband and father uses when he hauls a carful of wife and children out in the country. One of the nicest sights we know of is that of a man who would rather ride at fifteen miles an hour, accompanied by six pounds of cold chicken and nine hundred pounds of family, than snort over the roads like a runaway freight engine and fresco the lineaments of sane people with dust.

THE LITTLE SOULS.

He shall never live long who serves only himself,
He shall never be great who thinks only of pelf.
Though he grow to be gray
In his own narrow way,
He shall find that the gold
He has labored to hold
Is an empty reward for his long years of strife.
And too late he shall learn he has wasted his life.

He shall never be wise who thinks only of gain,
And toils for but what he, himself, may attain.
He shall sigh at the end
For the smile of a friend
And shall reap from his years
Only hatred and sneers,
And alone he shall sit at the end of his days
And wish he had traveled by kindlier ways.

He shall never be big who has never been kind
But shall always be little of soul and of mind.
He may scramble and fight
By the stern rule of might
And may get to the peak
By destroying the weak.
But there he shall find that his conquests are spoiled
And robbed of their charm by the way he has toiled.

The service worth while is the service men give
That others in sunshine and laughter may live.
The big men are they
Who will pause on the way,
To play for another
The role of a brother.
The great men are they who are gentle and kind;
They live when they die in the friends left behind.

UNDOING

By George Matthew Adams.

FORMATION is always better than reformation. The mended article is never as valuable as the original article. The field neglected and given over to weeds is never so fertile again. In like manner, the cells of a man's Brain, given over to foolish and unprofitable Thought are never so plastic for useful Thought tracks again.

Everything is Easier and Better if always done Right—in the first place.

The process of Undoing works havoc, not only upon the Character of the one who Works or Thinks wrongly in the first place, but in many instances upon countless multitudes. While the time spent in Undoing represents an irreparable loss. Every time you start a new duty or piece of work, bring to the front of your Mind this eternal truth—

Everything is Easier and Better if always done Right—in the first place.

If we all could but view our acts in the light of Eternity—not forgetting that a single effort is never lost from influence, we would set on guard our most trustworthy Sentinel to warn us against doing things Wrongly in the first place—which always means Undoing for us or somebody afterward. Why not write this down as one of your daily Mottoes—

Everything is Easier and Better if always done Right—in the first place.

The king of Italy was the first of European royalties to learn to drive his own motorcar.

Remarkable Flight of Pigeon.

A homing pigeon bearing the name of Ben Bolt was announced as having established a new long-distance flight record of 2,200 miles in the summer 1915, from Norwalk, Ohio, to Los Angeles, Cal. The bird made the trip in five days nine hours and thirty-one minutes, arriving at Los Angeles August 30.

Douglas Fairbanks, Charlie Chaplin & Mary Pickford

Mildred Harris Chaplin, the charming wife of the famous screen comedian, who is said to be planning court action against the inimitable Charlie because of domestic infelicity. The threatened suit for separate maintenance of Mrs. Chaplin makes the third craft of love to strike the rocks among the "million-dollar-a-year" movie stars. The others who found married life a failure were Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks. Mary Pickford was recently granted a divorce from Owen Moore in Nevada. Her suit, it is said, was brought to secure a free hand in straightening out her business affairs prior to making a will. Douglas Fairbanks was divorced by Mrs. Fairbanks, who remarried immediately. She charged desertion and named an unidentified woman as correspondent. When Mary Pickford was granted her divorce she denied that she intended to marry Douglas Fairbanks. In the lower group are the famous film triumvirate, Douglas Fairbanks, Charles Chaplin and Mary Pickford, all of whose marital ventures appear to have proved failures.

GERMAN REDS PRINT MONEY

Laborers In Mecklenburg and Pomerania Seize Large Estates—Berlin Has No Gas or Water But Strikers Are Resuming Work—Ebert Abates Rule of Force.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berlin, March 22.—(night)—Bolshevik money is being printed by the local soviets established in Mecklenberg and Pomerania, the foreign office announced today. The government troops are holding the towns in those districts but the laborers are imitating the Russian Bolsheviks and are seizing large estates.

Leipzig and Dresden are both controlled by government forces, it was announced.

The government claims that the backbone of the general strike has been broken. Workers of the middle class and many unorganized employes are returning to the factories.

This city was still without gas and water, however.

The situation in the Rhineland is most critical. The reds in Thuringia are strongly organized and threaten to give battle to any troops sent against them.

In order to placate the workers the government has began to reduce its military measures. The cabinet has countermanded orders for an "offensive" and government leaders declared today that the Reichswehr would be used only for defensive warfare.

The death penalty will not be imposed unless President Ebert signs the individual execution order, it was stated.

The lifting of martial law, in order to appease the strikers is being discussed.

The Ebert cabinet is reported not to be supporting the military and promises are being made that the Reichswehr will be withdrawn, as soon as possible.

A wave of excitement was caused among the majority Socialists by a report that the Reds had summarily executed a dozen members of the majority Socialist party at Aldershof.

Chancellor Bauer stated that is would be necessary to consult all political parties before he could answer the demand of the strikers fo the formation of a labor government.

Would Probe Gasoline Price.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 23.—An investigation of the price of gasoline by the attorney general is authorized by a resolution introduced in the house today by Representative Dyer of Missouri. Recent sharp advances in the price of gasoline have led to charges of profiteering made against the oil refiners and dealers in gasoline.

HOOVER IS A REPUBLICAN

Though Not Strict Partisan—Expected To Outline His Position Soon—Will Accept Nomination But Won't Fight For It.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, March 23—Close friends of Herbert Hoover here and in Washington would not be surprised if in the near future the former food administrator decides to make clear once and for all his position on national policies and in the campaign of 1920.

These friends believe that this position will be substantially as follows:

"Herbert Hoover is a candidate for the Republican nomination for the presidency, but he emphatically is not a candidate to the extent of making a fight for the nomination and assimilating all the mud and rhetorical abuse which features a fight. He will not fight for it, but if it should be offered him he will accept it."

Mr. Hoover himself will neither deny or affirm his reported intentions. He won't discuss politics—at least he won't discuss politics where there is a chance of such a discussion becoming widely known. Visitors to his office in lower Broadway who seek to learn the former food administrator's political views and leanings are met with a circular letter which Mr. Hoover placed in the hands of his associates and aides in the American relief administration absolutely forbidding them to talk politics. Occasionally it works.

All doubt as to Mr. Hoover's choice in political parties, however, has been dispelled. He is a Republican and always has been, though not a strict partisan. He is classed by some as an "independent Republican" whatever that may be.

The Republicans who are sponsoring the Hoover candidacy point out that thus far the only opposition to his candidacy has been voiced by Senator Boies Penrose, of Pennsylvania, the "old guard" bulwark. Senator Penrose characterized Hoover as "a Wilsonian Democrat." But since that characterization, it is pointed out, Mr. Hoover has split with the president on the peace treaty, and his recently published letter advising the president against "entangling alliances," also shows there was considerable divergence of opinion between the White House and the food administrator.

Hoover is being touted in some Republican circles as the "ideal compromise candidate," as the Republican party foresees that in the event of a fight at Chicago some compromise will be necessary.

The American relief commission, of which Mr. Hoover is the head, is now winding up its affairs. By the time the political hectic days of June roll around, those affairs will practically be finished and he will be free from the charity work, which his friends say, has kept him from talking, thinking or acting thus far.

So Mr. Hoover is going to be out of a job in June, so as to speak, and as regards a White House job, it appears that he is willing.

DUBLIN DISORDERS

Trouble Starting at Theatre Results in Gunfire and Panic.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, March 23.—Disorder broke out in Dublin during the night and 50 rounds were fired by machine guns, according to a Central News dispatch from Dublin today. There was a panic but no casualties were reported.

Trouble started when an orchestra refused to play the national anthem. Soldiers broke windows of the theater. Later they returned from their barracks and fired two volleys amidst the crowds. All the lights in the theater were extinguished and the people fled, taking shelter wherever they could find it. They feared to venture into the streets to go home.

Armored cars were driven to Angier street from the barracks.

"Winners" To Present Farce.

A farce comedy entitled "Which is Which," will be presented in the Sunday school room of Clinton Avenue M. E. Church on Wednesday evening, March 31, by the "Winners" of that church. This is expected to be one of the best plays put on by the "Winners" and a large crowd will undoubtedly be on hand as their ability is well known. A small sum will be charged.

Stage Will Start.

Longyear's auto stage, running between Bearsville, Woodstock and Kingston, will make its first trip this season on Thursday. The stage will leave Woodstock at 9 o'clock and Kingston at 3:30.

Apparently Contradictory.

Recently I attended an evening party where "chili con carne" was served. During the repast the five-year-old daughter of the family looked up and said: "Daddy, why do we call it chilly when it is so hot?"—Exchange.

Just an Idea.

Little Wilbur, age three and one-half years, was watching his grandmother while she was scaling fish and, after the operation said: "Do their backs itch, 'cause you scratch 'em, granny?"

Expert Savage Fishermen.

The Sandwich Islanders and the people of the Ladrones are exceptional as savage fishermen, having no fear of fairly deep water. The latter think nothing of going fishing in 15 fathoms in light canoes called proas, rigged with one sail, in the construction of which their ancestors most likely copied the Malay pirates.

CENTRAL HUDSON BOATS RUNNING

Between Newburgh and New York—First Boat Down Today—Opening of Kingston Route Uncertain—Rob Busy Breaking River Channel.

While there is plenty of ice between Newburgh and New York, the Central-Hudson Line resumed navigation between those points today when the Poughkeepsie left Newburgh for New York city, and the steamer Newburgh left New York for Newburgh. It was expected that they would get through without much difficulty.

The Homer Ramsdell, which has been berthed all winter in the Rondout creek, is ready to go into commission at brief notice, but as yet no date has been set for the opening of navigation between this port and New York.

The tub Rob was busy all day breaking a channel through the river ice to Rhinecliff for the ferry Transport, which will soon resume trips. At an early hour this afternoon the Rob had gotten nearly across the river to Rhinecliff.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman

New York, March 23.—Price changes were irregular at the opening of the stocg market today, with the majority of stocks being established at lower levels. Steel Common yielded 1¾ to 103⅛. Baldwin Locomotive advanced 1 point to 138½ and then yielded to 136⅝. Crucible after an opening gain of 2½ to 240 fell 3 points. General Motors continued to fluctuate over a wide range, opening 6½ points higher at 380 and then quickly falling to 371. Pierce Arrow after advancing to 74 dropped to 72¾ while Studebaker dropped 1½ to 109. Mexican Petroleum rose 1¾ to 201¼ and then yielded to 199. Middle States Oil was in supply dropping 2⅜ to 29⅞, while Texas Company fell 3 points to 217. Marine Preferred rose 1¼ to 100½ and Tobacco Products 2 points to 76. Losses of 1 point were suffered in International Paper and American Woolen. Fractional gains were made in the railway issues.

All stocks rallied in the early afternoon, but when the call rate was fixed at 7 per cent. these upturns were short-lived and selling pressure was again exerted towards noon. General Motors sold up 11 points from the low to 382, but yielded again to 375. Pierce Arrow, after recovering to 74¾, dropped 2 points, and Studebaker slumped to 107⅛. Baldwin, after rallying to above 138, fell to 136½. Mexican Petroleum dropped to 198 and Pan-American Petroleum to 102¾. Losses of from 1 to 4 points were general in the rest of the list.

General Motors again commanded attention during the afternoon, selling up 28 points from the low to 399. The market showed much irregularity during the afternoon and many stocks turned weak when the call money rate rose to 8 per cent.

The market closed irregular; government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds strong.

Hapsburg.

Hapsburg, meaning "Hawk's Castle," was a castle which stood in the canton of Aargau, Switzerland, the reputed cradle of the Hapsburg dynasty.

BROOD COOPS FOR CHICKENS

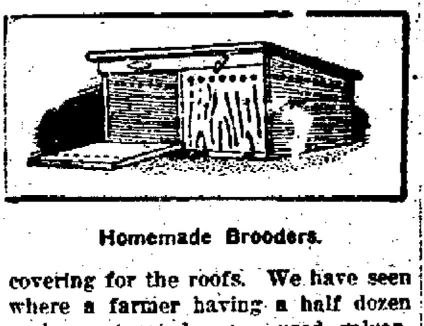
Directions Given for Construction of Cheap and Effective Pens for Little Chicks.

The accompanying drawing gives an idea of how quickly and cheaply any number of brood compartment coops can be constructed. It shows only two sections, but any desired number can be put together, saving material. We suggest that only three at the most be united, as they are easier handled when desiring to remove to new quarters, says a writer in an exchange.

The one section shows the door closed and button turned to hold lid up at night. The other section shows the door down for daytime to allow the hen and young free range in the orchard or pasture, wherever the coops may be located.

A very convenient size both for cutting material and the handling of completed coop has been found to be as follows: Twenty-four inches high in front, 18 inches high at rear, 18 inches deep from front to back. One-inch holes can be bored at each end and a line of them through the top of the door, as indicated by the closed door in drawing. Also, if the roof boards are allowed to project over back wall several inches it is not a bad idea to bore a few holes in the back wall. Some farmers have been very thoughtful and constructed similar coops during the cold, wet, sleety weather the last winter when nothing in the field could be done, and they are ahead much when the fields demand so much time and attention at this season.

Shingles or prepared roofing, whatever is convenient, will make an ideal covering for the roofs. We have seen where a farmer having a half dozen such constructed coops used galvanized iron from an old shed in town that he obtained for the hauling.



Homemade Brooders.

AVOID HIGH-FLAVORED FEEDS

Onions Have Been Fed in Sufficient Quantities to Affect Eggs—Color of Yolk Influenced.

In extreme cases the flavor and odor of the feed have been imparted to the egg. Onions have been fed in sufficient quantity to bring about this effect. Those who desire to market a first-class article should not give feeds of high and objectionable flavor to their flocks.

In no case should tainted feed be allowed to enter the ration. Feed also has an influence on the color of the yolk, according to the United States department of agriculture. Corn fed exclusively will give a deep yellow or highly colored yolk, while wheat fed alone will produce a much lighter yolk. A fairly high-colored yolk is usually preferred and can usually be obtained by feeding a moderate amount of corn. Plenty of green feed also enriches the color of the yolk.

DO NOT OVERCROWD POULTRY

Few Hens in Small Yard Do Better Than Larger Number in Same Space—Room for Each.

Better results will be obtained from a few hens in a small yard than from a larger number in the same yard. The backyard poultry flock rarely will consist of more than 20 to 25 hens, and in many cases only a half-dozen hens are kept. For a flock of 20 to 25 hens a space of not less than 25 by 30 feet is required. From 20 to 30 square feet per hen should usually be allowed.

LARGE BREEDS GROW SLOWLY

Brahmas and Cochins Are Profitable Where There Is Demand for Heavy Fowls.

The biggest breeds of poultry, like Brahmas and Cochins, grow more slowly than the medium-sized breeds and therefore are not ready for market as soon, but they weigh more and are profitable where the market demands a large-sized fowl.

NEEDED EXERCISE BY FOWLS

Hens Can Be Kept Busy by Scattering Grain in Litter on Dry and Clean Floor.

Be sure that the floor of the henhouse is dry and reasonably clean and covered with three or four inches of clean litter in which grain can be scattered so that the fowls can obtain exercise scratching for it.

The Mind of a Woman.

"A woman is more religious than a man," says Dr. A. T. Schofield in "The Mind of a Woman." "There is more of the emotional and the mystic. Women, being more emotional than men, are pre-eminent in the spiritual life, for here is their nature more than it is that of men."

ANDREWS WEARS 5 GOLD STRIPES

Sergeant One of Few Overseas Men Entitled to Honor.

IS DECORATED FOR VALOR

Also Wins French Bride and Says This Was Harder Task Than Winning Two Croix de Guerre and Other Battle Honors—Took Three Months of Hard Work Before He Could Take Bride to Church for Ceremony.

One of the few overseas men who is entitled to wear five gold service chevrons is Sergt. Charles E. Andrews, who returned to the United States on January 24, 1920, after spending thirty-one months and seven days in France and Germany. He is now on duty at the recruiting station in Chicago, says the Fort Sheridan Recall.

Besides five gold service stripes he brought with him one wound stripe, a victory badge decorated with five bronze battle stars and two silver ones for divisional citations, two croix de guerre, a French fourragerie and what was even harder to win, according to his statements—a French bride.

"If I had it all to do over again," said Sergeant Andrews, "I'd bring my bride to America to marry her. Because it took three months of hard work before I could take her to the church, even after she had said 'Yes.'

A Matter of State.

"In the first place, an American who married a French girl had to see the American, the Belgian and French consuls. He had to make several calls at the chamber of deputies—but I've forgotten what the calls were for now. The wedding had to be advertised in the city hall eight days before the wedding. And before the license was granted he had to visit about every public building in Paris, interviewing city officials. I'm strong for the good old country where the work is all done after the girl is won."

Sergeant Andrews was lucky enough to find a French girl who can really speak English well.

"You see, she used to teach it in the public schools," he said. "I went into a souvenir shop in Paris one day where she happened to be clerking, and got to talking to her there. She helped me pick out some souvenirs, and I—well, I sure needed some help, for I wasn't thinking much about what I was buying after I once saw her!"

Sergeant Andrews is a First division man, and was attached to the Second field signal battalion. He took part in the offensive at Cantigny, Soissons, St. Mihiel, the Argonne and the second battle of the Marne.

Armistice Day Scrappy.

"The hardest fighting I saw during the whole war was on the morning of November 11," he said. "Back in the sector where I was at the time, we did not know a thing about the armistice until two minutes of eleven, and we'd been firing just as fast as the old guns would go off all morning.

"About five minutes of eleven a French radio operator came running out of a dug-out to tell us that at eleven o'clock all firing would cease, but we laughed at him. But just two minutes before eleven we were officially notified to stop firing, and we believed it to be true for the first time.

"And when the firing did stop, what do you think happened? You would expect a lot of rejoicing, wouldn't you? Well, there wasn't. Everybody just dropped down where they were standing and went to sleep. All the celebrating that took place had to wait until we had some sleep to work up pep to celebrate with. We had all gone just about as far as we could without sleep, and even the news of an armistice couldn't seem to get through our heads, for all we realized was that we could stop firing. That was down around Sedan, where the firing had been continuous for many hours."

About the two individual croix de guerre, Sergeant Andrews had little to say.

"I don't know what they are for," he said, just as every Yank who was ever decorated says when he is asked about his citations. "They both read about the same—something about maintaining communication in advance in the face of a deadly fire—you know the stock phrases they use in citations."

ICE IMPRISONS 300 "GOBS"

Jam in the St. Lawrence May Not Be Broken Before June.

Three hundred American "gobs" and thirty officers are held prisoners at Quebec—not in the citadel, but in the middle of the St. Lawrence river, surrounded by ice.

The sailors were on board eight Eagle boats and a Detroit tug and were caught in an ice jam. Now they can move only 32 feet a day—16 feet up the river with the ice when the tide comes in and 16 feet down when the tide goes out again. Ice three feet thick goes with them on each trip, but there is little probability the men will be released before June.

War Prisoners Returned.

One hundred and ninety thousand prisoners of war, including 43,110 officers, have been repatriated from French camps since January 20, according to an announcement from the French war office.

Firms and Families.

A firm is like a family—it is bound together by mutual interests. Just as families quarrel and ruin their homes, so the members of a firm may quarrel and ruin their wages and profits. But a normal family does not quarrel. It develops a family feeling, and all combine to protect each other.

Miss Elizabeth Chapman

International

Miss Elizabeth Chapman, beautiful student of the Northwestern University, who was seriously injured as a result of a three-story fall from a room in which she had been locked by fellow students. Miss Chapman was president of the freshman class of the university. To keep her from attending a party, members of the sophomore class had kidnapped her and locked her in a room on the third floor of the dormitory. Miss Chapman, in an attempt to reach the ground through the window, stripped a sheet and tied the ends together. The improvised rope broke and she plunged to the walk below. An investigation is being made by the university authorities.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gerow Schoonmaker of Wallkill, N. Y., announce the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth, to Roscoe S. Strivings of Castile, N. Y. Miss Schoonmaker and Mr. Strivings are both students at the Syracuse University.

A birthday surprise party was tendered Miss Minnie Hermance at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Schermerhorn, 86 Pearl street, Saturday evening. A number of her friends passed the evening very pleasantly and enjoyed the excellent refreshments which were provided. The party dispersed to their homes at a late hour with best wishes to Miss Hermance for many more equally happy birthdays.

Traver-Norton.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Caroline M. Norton of Poughkeepsie and William Traver of Highland. The wedding was solemnized at the Hedding M. E. parsonage in Poughkeepsie by the Rev. George H. Chesebro March 11. They will make their home at 61 Garden street, Poughkeepsie.

Olympian Club.

The Olympian club met Monday evening at the home of Miss Jennie Riseley. The program for study for next year was decided upon and will be as follows: The main topic will be "Modern Poets and Modern Poetry." There will be a brief review of current events given and the roll call will consist of about ten minutes of oral French. The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. Nickerson.

Monday Club.

This Monday Mrs. Michael was the hostess of the Monday Club. Mrs. Hornbeck had the paper for the day, her subject being, "Cathedrals, Pau; Lourdes." Further arrangements were made by the Monday Club for the entertaining of the Federation of Women's Clubs, and the public at large on Saturday afternoon, March 27th, at 3 o'clock at the chapel of the First Dutch Church, when the Rev. Father Mabry of Holy Cross Church will speak on "The Development of Democracy in France." Next week the club will meet with Mrs. G. D. B. Hasbrouck.

Twentieth Century Club.

The Twentieth Century Club was entertained by Mrs. Brodhead at her home on Fair street on Monday. Following the roll call of "One Minute Sketches of Great Men of Mexico," Mrs. Harrison gave an excellent and entertaining paper on "Art and Music in Mexico." After the paper Mrs. Everett gave a reading, "Mexico as Seen by Tourist and Sportsman." A discussion of current events closed the program for the day. The program for the study of next year, "Italy," was presented to the club members and accepted. The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. J. T. Johnson.

Scott-Vandermark.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scott of Walker Valley, N. Y., announce the marriage of their son, Henry Scott, to Miss Grace Vandermark of Wallkill. The wedding was performed at the Reformed Church of Wallkill by Rev. Garrett Demott, Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The bride was charmingly gowned in blue silk. She was attended by Miss Marie Scott as bridesmaid, a sister of the groom, who was attired in blue silk. The best man was Daniel E. Scott, a brother of the groom. The groom was a soldier in the world war and served twelve months overseas. Both are popular young folks and have the well wishes of a host of friends for a long, prosperous and happy married life.

To Reopen Atlas Yard.

The plant of the Atlas Brick Company at Roseton, which has been sold to I. Sternberg of Brooklyn, will be reopened. Thomas Lombard will be the superintendent of the yard. Mr. Sternberg will make his home in Newburgh.

ABOUT THE FOLKS.

THREE KILLED.

Miners and Detectives' Differences Culminate in Battle.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Middlesboro, Ky., March 23.—Three men were killed and four wounded Saturday night in a pitched battle between miners of the Harlan county coal fields and special detectives hired by the mine owners to prevent their unionizing. News of the battle was received here only today and it is believed to have been suppressed.

The trouble, brewing for months, came to a head when one of the detectives slapped the son of Bud Taylor, a miner. The father took up the quarrel and, it is alleged, was shot dead by the detective. Other miners fired on him, and general rioting followed. Deputy Sheriff Burkes was one of those killed in the fighting.

The detectives and guards were sent away in an automobile to avoid further trouble, but the miners organized and are searching for them. More trouble is feared.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

Litigation Threatens Destruction of Church, Says Attorney.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Boston, March 23.—Litigation is endangering the principles of Christian Science and threatens the destruction of the whole church structure, Attorney Charles Choate declared in the supreme court today, speaking in behalf of Mrs. Emily Hulin of Brooklyn, N. Y., and other first members of the church. They seek the right to intervene in the lawsuit between the directors and trustees of the Christian Science Publishing Company.

Leading members of the church from Boston, New York and Washington were present. Scores of them could not get into the court room after standing in line for hours.

American Steamer In Peril.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Boston, March 23.—The American steamship Rock Island Bridge, with a number of Boston men in her crew, was reported today to be in a sinking condition off the coast of France. According to the reports, the steamer, which sailed from Portland, Me., on February 20, the first boat in the new service to Antwerp and Rotterdam, was sinking rapidly and sending out SOS calls.

GREAT RENT BILL FIGHT BEGINS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., March 23.—Landlords and tenants by the train loads overwhelmed the capitol and every available inch of space in the legislative chambers and lobbies this afternoon prepared to fight for and against the program of rent legislation submitted to the legislature by the housing commission and designed to curb rent gouging landlords, when the legislative houses adjourned after one of the busiest days of the session.

Three special trains carried close to 1,500 persons from New York city, who came here and lined up on both sides of the question which is giving legislators thought for solution only second to the prohibition problem. Hundreds of others, men and women, came from other parts of the state and crowded the chambers where the special legislative housing commission held its hearing on the nine bills constituting its program.

U. S. HAD TO GRANT ARMISTICE

Because Army's Service of Supply Had Broken—That Statement Made by Admiral Sims in 1918 Testifies Carter Glass—Wrote That Horses Had to be Used for Food in Argonne.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 23.—The fact that the United States was obliged to grant an armistice because the service of supply of the American army had broken was the flat declaration that Carter Glass claimed Admiral Sims made to him and Representatives Whaley and Byrnes on October 30, 1918, in Paris.

This was brought out today in the investigation of charges against the navy department by a senate subcommittee.

Senator Pittman of Nevada presented to the sub-committee a letter from Senator Glass to Admiral Sims in which he made this charge, and in which he further said:

"The fact that nearly seven months later you and General Pershing exchanged cordial personal letters can not alter the circumstances."

Senator Pittman also read a letter written by Admiral Sims to Louis Bailey, of the British Admiralty, two days before the armistice, which declared: "It had been the opinion that it would be impossible to force the enemy back through the Argonne forest, not only on account of the great difficulty of transport, but also the troops operating in this area could be supplied only over one main line road."

Due to the fact that the road was not sufficient to supply all the needs of the troops, "horses had to be slaughtered to supply the troops, notwithstanding the scarcity of horses at that time."

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

J. I. Huhne, formerly of Kingston, died suddenly Monday morning, March 22, in New York city. He was a son of Mrs. Augustus Huhne of 66 Abeel street. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Michael Lenihan, beloved husband of Rose Fenton, died early this morning at his residence, 39 Ponckhockie street. Besides his wife, he is survived by four small children. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

Carrie Lyons, wife of Richard G. Watson, of No. 57 Gage street, died on Monday at the Kingston City Hospital of pneumonia, in her 41st year. Besides her husband she is survived by four children. The funeral will be held from the late residence on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment in Montrepose Cemetery.

Dr. Phoebe Williamson, founder of the Women's Hospital in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and a member of the Eastern District Hospital in Brooklyn, died in New York Monday, in Hahnemann Hospital. She was born in Millbrook, N. Y., 70 years ago and was educated at the Women's Medical College and New York Infirmary. She was a classmate of Dr. Elizabeth Blackwell, founder of Blackwell's Island Hospital. A daughter survives her.

Mary Weber, a former resident of this city, died at the home of Bishop Broderick on Main street in Saugerties on Monday morning, following a short illness from pneumonia. She was a daughter of the late Carolina Weber, who died at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Matthew Clark at 121 Fair street, this city, two weeks ago. She is survived by one sister, Mrs. Laura Zeeh of this city and one niece, Mrs. Matthew Clark. The remains were brought to this city by Undertakers Grogan & Scherer and the funeral will be held from the home of her niece at 121 Fair street Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock and from St. Peter's Church at 9:30 when a high Mass of requiem will be celebrated for the repose of her soul. Interment in the family plot in St. Peter's cemetery.

Mrs. Sarah Stanton Bogardus of Saugerties, widow of the late Howard Bogardus, was found dead in her bed at the Heidelberg in Catskill Sunday morning, having expired during the night. She had been spending the winter at the Heidelberg and had been in poor health for some time. Her age was 56 years. Coroner Rapp was called and gave a permit to move the body to the deceased's home in Saugerties, where the funeral will be held. Mrs. Bogardus was a cousin of John H. Story and the Misses Story of Catskill. She was born in Saugerties and had lived practically all her life in that village. Howard Bogardus, her husband, who died about three years ago, was prominent in the bluestone industry in Malden. Mrs. Bogardus is survived by two children, Kenneth and Elsie, both of Saugerties.

James Millard, one of the city's oldest and most respected citizens, and head of the firm of James Millard & Son, died at his home, 244 Albany avenue, early this morning. Mr. Millard was born in England in 1833, where he learned the profession of mechanical engineer. In 1857 he came to this country, locating in Kingston in 1853. He was employed with James W. Baldwin in 1865 when he entered business for himself conducting a foundry and machine shop. Later an automobile garage and repair shop was added. Starting without capital, Mr. Millard achieved success by earnest labor and capable management. In 1860 Mr. Millard married Miss Leah M. Rosa. She died in 1900. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity and of the Odd Fellows. Mr. Millard in spite of his age still took an active part in the management of his business. He is survived by one son, John, and two daughters, Sarah J., and Minnie M. Millard. The funeral will be held at the home, 244 Albany avenue, Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Duke and Duchess of Marlborough
INTERNATIONAL

The announcement from London that the Dutchess of Marlborough, formerly Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, has taken preliminary steps toward obtaining a divorce from the Duke of Marlborough, caused little surprise in this country. The differences of the Marlboroughs are of long standing and a definite move on the part of the Duchess for her marital freedom was expected. The announcement came shortly after the wedding of the Duchess's oldest son, the Marquis of Blandford, to Hon. Mary Cadogan. The Duchess is shown here from her latest photograph taken a few months ago. The Duke's photo is a recent one.

Chinese in Java.

The standard of living is probably higher in Java than any other Chinese community in the world. The houses are clean and well furnished, the people dress in European clothing, and every one has a great deal to say about dirt and sanitation. There are Chinese families in Java which have been there for five centuries, but the great majority of the 300,000 who live on the island have come there or are descended from those who came there in the last fifty years.

OLYMPICS AND TROJANS WON

Two more fast and exciting games of basketball were played in the Y. M. C. A. city league Saturday night. The first game was between the Trojans and Athenians, the former winning with a 33-15 score.

Dolson was the high point getter of the evening and dropped in ten field goals. He has held the lead in the individual scoring in the league for the greater part of the season, and is still going strong. Albrecht scored four fields for the Athenians. The score:

Imparting Information.

Bartlett had heard his parents spell most of their conversations, so upon learning his first few words he greeted his father that evening with: "Daddy, we're going to R. A. T. (picture show)."

Duly Announced.

Mary, upon answering the door bell found a couple of women who had stopped to call. As she let them in she called to her mother: "Mother, you have a couple of customers."

Troublesome Weed.

The hawkweed, introduced from Europe into Canada and the New England states, has become one of the most troublesome weeds in grass lands.

Edenic, What?

"The bride was gowned in white chrysanthemums, and autumn leaves formed the decorations."—Boston Transcript.

Known by Their Headdress.

In primitive times the headdress was a distinctive mark, representing the organization of groups of men.

Post-Holiday Reflection.

A holiday is a day when most people feel less hollow than usual.

Comfort and Economy

Health and comfort are in the balance when you select a heating plant. Guide your judgment by the uniform satisfaction of thousands who have Square Pot Furnaces and Boilers.

The Boynton is not the cheapest, but it shows the lowest cost per year. It's built to last and to save coal without sacrificing heat.

You can maintain an even fire at any desired speed. Ashes will not accumulate and clinkers pass out freely. If an obstinate clinker causes trouble, there's an inbuilt clinker bar to smash it.

The square firepot is most important and is found only in the Boynton. Ask your dealer to demonstrate. We will send particulars on request.

PHOENICIA WINS EIGHT IN A ROW

The Phoenicia basketball team won its eight consecutive victory on Saturday evening when they defeated the Gilboa team with a 26-8 score on the Phoenicia court.

The game was fast and exciting throughout as both teams played hard. At the end of the first half the score was 10-6, but in the second half Phoenicia ran away from Gilboa and completely overwhelmed them. Phoenicia's pass work was like clock work and bewildered the Gilboaians.

Spink and Simpson were the stars for Phoenicia while W. Johnson shone for the Gilboa quintet. The score:

MEN IN AIR SERVICE GET CHANCE TO FLY

Are Given Course in Plane Mechanics and Construction.

The United States army air service has selected 194 of the enlisted men on duty at the various fields in the United States to take flying training. These men have been placed on a cadet status and now are under instruction at both Carlstrom field, Arcadia, Florida and March field, Riverside, Cal.

The cadets are given a thorough course in all branches including mechanics and the construction of airplanes in the ground schools before they take their actual flying training. The entire course covers a period of from nine months to one year during which time the cadet draws $100 per month.

During the world war the allies and even Germany used many enlisted flyers over the lines and the United States was the single exception. Many of the Americans in the Lafayette Escadrille were enlisted men and remained enlisted men until they were taken over in the American air service, whereupon they were commissioned. It is the intention of the air service to allow all enlisted men who so desire to take flying training.

The cadets, upon the completion of their training, are commissioned in the aviation section of the signal reserve corps as airplane pilots and are given the preference to either receive their discharge or return to duty as enlisted men with the privilege of wearing wings. A great majority of the cadets have signified their intention of staying in the service after the completion of their training. At the present time about 150 men are on the waiting list for flying training.

In view of the increased facilities for training, the army air service in the near future will be ready to accept candidates from civil life who desire to take a course of training for airplane pilots.

ENGINE GOES ON TOOT

Runs Away, but Halts When Thirst Looms.

Locomotive No. 624 of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad went off on a toot through Chicago, despite the eighteenth constitutional amendment. The engine was puffing along without a train hitched to it when the engineer and fireman, fearing collision with another train, jumped from it. [illegible] the train, the locomotive steamed on by itself, running away from an engine hastily sent in pursuit. It tore along to the outskirts of the city, where, finding it couldn't get a drink, it halted.

The pursuing engine hauled the prodigal back to a roundhouse, where it was coaled, watered and forgiven.

Horse-Drawn Fire Engine a Curio.

The last horse-drawn fire engine remaining in the London fire brigade has been offered to the South Kensington Science museum.

Men and Women Stutterers.

There are only about one-fourth as many women who stammer as men thus troubled.

The Chipmunk.

The chipmunk is a provident little chap, and stores up a prodigious quantity of food, sometimes a peck or more of nuts and grain; and when snugly hidden in his winter burrow, the mouth of which he closes when the cold season arrives, a hard winter has no terrors for him. His enemies, the hawks, owls and weasels, may go hungry, but safe in the bosom of mother earth, with the warm mantle of snow above him, the chipmunk passes a cozy winter, in the midst of comfort and plenty, dreaming of the time when the south wind will blow and the squirrel cups shall open once more.—Boys' Life.
